Gallaudet Students Get Back In Touch With People

WASHINGTON (AP) — If they had to make such a dreadful choice, many people think they would rather be deaf than blind. But Dr. Leonard M. Elstad says deafness is the greater handicap.

"Deafness shuts you off from people and blindness shuts you off from things," he said. "People are more important than things."

As president of Gallaudet College, the only college in the world for the deaf, Elstad is a man of expert opinion. He has been working with the deaf for 44 years.

There are an estimated 300,000 deaf persons in the United States, and for many it is a closed world, turned in upon itself. The basic problem is communication.

Gallaudet, set on a spacious campus within sight of the Capitol dome, is one place where qualified deaf students can get a college education with the special attention and techniques they need.

102 Years Old

It is a fully accredited liberal arts and science college, created 102 years ago by an Act of Congress signed by President Abraham Lincoln. It gets most of its funds from the government.

It is named for Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet, who founded the first U.S. school for the deaf in 1817. His son, Edward Miner Gallaudet, was the college's first president.

When Elstad took over as its third president 21 years ago, Gallaudet had a student body of 150. Now it has 800, and an enrollment of 1,780 is projected for 1975. The campus shines with new buildings. Tuition fees are charged, but there are many scholarships, and no one who can qualify is turned away.

Gallaudet is much more than a four-year college. It is in fact a five-year college because a one-year intensive remedial preparatory course is offered for those who have not quite reached college level.

There is a two-year graduate school offering masters degrees in teaching and in the science of audiology.

The Kendall School, also on the campus, is a laboratory elementary and secondary school primarily for deaf children from the District of Columbia.

Finally, at Gallaudet's Hearing and Speech Center, there is an experimental preschool program to spend his entire educational career on this one campus, from infancy to graduate school, and a few have done it.

Simultaneous System

At Gallaudet the "simultaneous system" is used in all instruction—a combination of speech, the manual alphabet and sign language.

The manual alphabet, with different finger and hand positions for the 26 letters, can be used at a rate of about 60 words per minute. Normal speech is at 150 words per minute.

Sign language, a system of gestures and symbols using the hands, arms, and parts of the head and body, can be used with incredible speed. Each of the 2,000 or so symbols covers a concept or phrase. But the meanings can overlap and the nuances of the spoken language are lost.

Speech is stressed because lip movements can be an important clue to meaning. But for even the best lip readers it is little more than educated guesswork, catching a key word here and there.

Dr. Harry Bornstein, research professor of psychology, said "the large majority have not been taught to speak intelligibly in spite of strenuous efforts."

But it is not a silent world except to those who live in it. The teachers (including deaf ones) speak, and most of the students do too.

In a history class for college juniors and seniors, several boys spoke very well. One girl made soft little whispering sounds as she conversed.

Learn Speech

There is no characteristic "deaf sound" in their speech—there are many variations. In the college's Kendall School some of the children make a sort of fluting noise as they strive to talk. Others talk well but in a flat monotone.

A key factor is whether they were born deaf or lost their hearing after learning to talk.

Eugene O. Mio, a history teacher new to the college this year, said he came into the deaf world "cold turkey" and had trouble making himself understood at first, in spite of an intense tutoring in sign language.

He said he finds the work challenging and rewarding. The students, he said, are "like empty vessels waiting to be filled up. You can mold them from scratch. This is where you get your fruits in teaching."

Mio said the toughest thing for him was "understanding what they are saying to you. It takes a while to get a two-way thing going."

"A boy is talking to me. He is making guttural noises, but I can't understand them," Mio said. "When I can, that will be the real breakthrough."

Mio has had difficulty "getting abstractions through" to the students. "Take democracy, for example. It's tough enough to explain democracy in any situation."

Mio pointed out another penalty of the deaf student. He can't take notes in class because he is too busy watching the teacher's hands and lips. Without the visual contact there is no communication.

Campus Life

The campus hums with normal college activities—sports, drama, modern dance, fraternities and Saturday night dances.

"The road to college is so long and difficult for the deaf that not many can make it," Elstad said. "The average deaf child is so far behind in grasping language that he never will catch up. These kids here are the pick of the crop."

Elstad said Gallaudet graduates go into many fields and "meld right in with the hearing world." Computer programming, laboratory science, government statistical work are areas where they can do well, but there many others.

Judgeship Marks Peak Of Negro' Success Story

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The story of the rise of George L. Russell Jr. reads like Horatio Alger. Except that Russell is a Negro.

In the 15-year span since he graduated from college, Russell has risen from a menial job that entailed shining shoes, to executive vice president of a life insurance company, to police magistrate and to an appointment Friday to the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City.

"I decided when I was in the third grade that I was going to be a lawyer and that I wasn't going to have a dingy office in a dirty neighborhood," he said in an interview.

Friday, when Russell's appointment was announced by Gov. J. Millard Tawes, he was a partner in an integrated law firm in Charles Center, a sparkling skyscraper in the center of Baltimore's urban renewal area.

Russell, 37, became the first Negro to be named a judge at the Circuit Court level in Maryland, and will be sworn in next Wednesday. He was appointed to the Baltimore Supreme Bench, whose members rotate annually among the city's top-level trial courts, such as Circuit Court, Common Pleas, Criminal, and Superior.

Russell, one of eight children of a retired postal inspector, graduated from Lincoln University in 1951. All eight children graduated from college.

He took a job, at the age of 21, in Baltimore with the late William W. Allen, a Negro and president of the Southern Life Insurance Co.

"I carried his briefcase, shined his shoes and opened doors for him and he taught me all he knew about real estate and business," said Russell. He became vice president of the firm when he was 28.

In the meantime, he graduated from the University of Maryland Law School by attending classes at night.

He was named to the city jail board and became a police magistrate. By 1964, he had been selected by the Maryland Bar Association to lecture throughout the state on constitutional law.

His formula for success is one of those things that is easier said than done: Set an objective and let nothing interfere with

RADIATION TREATED MEAT LEAVES PLANT

OTTUMAWA, Iowa (AP)—The first commercial shipment of meat to be canned with the aid of radiation treatments left the John Merrell and Co. packing plant here Friday.

The refrigerated truck carried 11 tons of canned, uncoked bacon bound for Brookhaven National Laboratory at Long Island, N. Y. Next week the bacon, still rolled in the cans, will be bombarded with cobalt rays which experts say will preserve it for at least two years.

Dr. Eugen Wierbicki, chief of the irradiated food products branch of the army laboratory at Natick, Mass., said once opened the canned bacon could spoil like any other food but is free from radiation effects.

achieving it. Would it have been easier to achieve his objective if he had been white?

"No," he said, without even hesitating. "The community tends to give a Negro who achieves things more credit. That's because the successful Negro defies their preconceived image of him."

"It's an advantage."

STATE AGENCY GET GRANT

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $95,000 grant to the Illinois Department of Business and Economic Development was announced Friday by the Economic Development Administration.

The money will help finance preparation of plans for drawing up economic development districts.

HUMORS of the day

June, 1866

There is an editor out West, who, when he is short of matter, sends out his paper with one side or page blank, merely drawing his subscribers' attention to the fact by a note — "This space will be useful for the children to write upon."

We don't believe, though we see it in print, that there is a man in Vermont who feeds his geese on iron filings, and gathers steel pens from their wings.

A gentleman was always complaining to his father-in-law of his wife's temper. At last, papa-in-law becoming weary of these endless grumbings, and being a bit of a wag, replied: "Well, my dear fellow, if I hear of her tormenting you any more I shall disinherit her."

The husband never again complained.

uncomfortably chilly weather. A son of F. W. Lewis, of this place, was considerably hurt a few days since, by the explosion of the powder in a horn in the hands of a gentleman near by. The little fellow's face was marked up by the powder, but not seriously.

From the Beardstown Central Illinoian:

CELEBRATION — The City Council to-day appropriated three hundred dollars to be expended under the direction of the Mayor, to procure powder, fireworks, and other materials, to be used on Wednesday next, in the celebration of the Fourth of July.

Our fellow citizens in Virginia and in Arizona have made ample arrangements to celebrate the 4th in proper style. It is said that Beardstown is dead. We think this not so when we come to consider business is so pressing that our business man cannot find time to write out their advertisements.

From the Jacksonville Sentinel: The business men of this city have subscribed to an agreement to close their houses on the 4th of July.

Persons desiring their provision baskets conveyed to the fair grounds on the Fourth, are notified to label the same with the name and leave them at Dobyns' store, from whence they will be conveyed to the grounds and stored in a building where they will be guarded until called for by the owners.

ILLINOIS STAATS DEMOKRAT — This is the title of a new German newspaper recently established in Springfield. Our German friends in this vicinity would do well to subscribe for the DEMOKRAT. We learn that the Hardin Base Ball Club, of this city, a few days since, sent challenge to Capital Club, of Springfield, to play a match game. The challenge has been accepted by the Springfield boys, and the match is to come off at Springfield on Saturday next.

THE FOURTH AT CONCORD — The citizens of Concord are making extensive preparations for celebrating the national anniversary. Music and speakers have been provided and the proposed demonstration bids fair to prove a success.

MASONIC PICNIC — The Masonic celebration of St. John's Day, at the Fair Grounds, on last Monday, was barring the heat and dust, an exceedingly pleasant and enjoyable occasion.

From the Carrollton Gazette: An extra train left Whitehall on Monday morning to convey the Masonic fraternity to Jacksonville, where St. John's Day was celebrated. The address was highly spoken of, but the heat of marching was intense and the ride disagreeable as the train was crowded almost to suffocation. The excursionists returned about 8 p.m.

Some burglars, who entered a drug store at Nashville, Tenn., intending robbery knocked over a bottle of acid, which fell on the foot of one, burning it to the bone, and making it impossible for him to leave the store. His cowardly companion deserted him, and he was discovered in the morning by the porter, and sent to jail.

Cadette Girl Scouts On 6-Day Park Tour

66 Cadettes Board Bus

L-R, Marjie Hofmann, Katie Walton, Janet VonFossen, Marty Wallace, Diane Waggoner and Joyce Cline

Kaskaskia State Park

Donna Smith With Melon Log Of Travel Camp

By Mrs. Roy Burrus

The Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Cadette Travel Camp departed at 9 a.m. from Jacksonville on Wednesday, June 8. The next stop was Roodhouse to pick up 15 more girls and 2 leaders, making a total of 66 girls and 5 leaders. Two buses and a station wagon were used to transport the camp and equipment.

As we drove into Grafton after riding thru a downpour of rain the sun started to shine. From then on for six days we had clear skies until we returned to Jacksonville during a shower.

Marquette State Park
We arrived at Pere Marquette State Park at noon, set up our thirty tents, and had lunch. The afternoon was spent hiking and sightseeing. After our evening meal we had a get acquainted program. An uninvited visitor to this gathering was a cute little skunk. He did not stay long and fortunately did not leave his calling card.

Kaskaskia
We had breakfast early Thursday morning then packed our tents back on the buses. Our next two stops were Fort du Chartré State Park and Kaskaskia State Park where we had a picnic lunch. The view of the Mississippi river from high on the bluff was breath taking.

S.I.U. Campus
Southern Illinois University at Carbondale was our next stop. William L. Pigott of Jacksonville, the brother of one of our Girl Scouts, Patti Pigott, took us on a most interesting tour of the campus. The Student Center was most impressive.

Giant City State Park
That evening we set up camp at Giant City State Park. The next morning a naturalist took us on a hike down the many interesting trails, rock formations that look like city streets and have historical interest dating back to the Civil War.

Dixon Springs
After lunch we drove to Dixon Springs State Park where we set up camp for the next 3 days. In the park was a lovely swimming pool that the girls really enjoyed. That evening the leaders put on the campfire program and popped corn for the girls.

Kentucky Dam
Saturday morning the buses took us to the Kentucky Dam State Park. While there we were given a conducted tour of the huge TVA dam. The girls had many questions to ask our guide about the dam and locks. That evening at campfire each patrol put on a skit, a hilarious time was had by all.

Sunday morning we all attended church. It was quite an impressive sight to see all the girls in their uniforms. The Catholic girls attended Mass in Vienna. The other girls went in groups to the little country churches, Baptist, Christian and Methodist that are in the park. They are the only buildings left from the village of Dixon Springs of over a hundred years ago. The dinner that noon was barbecued chicken and declared delicious by everyone. That evening the campfire was a "Scout's Own," a rededication to the Girl Scout Promise and Laws as demonstrated by the fun, fellowship, cooperation and activities of this trip.

Old State Capitol
Early Monday morning we packed up for the trip home. Lots of pictures were taken and addresses exchanged. We stopped in Vandalia to visit the old State Capitol building of Lincoln's time. Lunch was eaten at the Vandalia City Park and included two surprise birthday cakes for Patty Frazier and Katie Walton. The one mishap of the trip occurred that afternoon when one bus broke down. When it was found to be impossible to repair it immediately, the girls doubled up on the good bus, and proceeded on to Jacksonville arriving shortly after 6 p.m., tired but happy with the memories of a wonderful six days.

Girls and leaders participating in the trip were from Jacksonville, Alexander and Roodhouse. Also enjoying the experience were three girls from the Braille and Sightseeing School whose homes are in Beardstown, Marion and Greenville.

Patrol leaders for the trip were Eleanor Applebee, Janie Kerns, Sheryl Leake, Becky Patterson, Katie Walton and Kathy Whitton. Assistant patrol leaders were Susan Burrus, Kathy Duncan, Diane Flynn, Kathy Gobin, Nancy Richard and Susie Ziegler.

This is the second year a travel camp has been sponsored by the Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Council for all 7th, 8th and 9th grade Girl Scouts of the four counties. Last year State Parks in the northern part of Illinois were visited. This trip is underwritten by the Council thru the Girl Scout Cookie Fund.

Magistrate Court Fines

Magistrate division of circuit court is a booming business in Morgan county. Deputy Circuit Clerk Mrs. Mabel Brown completed an audit of fines and fees collected during the six months' period from Dec. 1, 1965 to June 1, 1966 and listed where the funds were paid.

The total amount of cash collected during the period was $19,103.30.

Distribution of the funds were: county general fund, $4,706.00, state's attorney fund, $6,686.98 for a total of $11,392.98 to county sources. The surplus in the state's attorney fund, after deducting the cost of all operations and salaries, then is returned to the county general fund.

Distribution to municipalities and other governmental units was: South Jacksonville, $468; City of Jacksonville, $5,664.50; Department of Public Safety (overweight truck fines), $1,097.62; Meredosia, $325; Department of Conservation (fishing and hunting violations), $95; and Village of Chapin, $40.

The figures compiled are certified to the circuit court and are audited several times each year. Magistrate Paul Fenstermaker shoulders the responsibility to determine fines and court costs for the various units of government. Most of the funds are received from traffic violations or fines concerning motor vehicles.

The figures do not include other fines and court costs collected by the other divisions of circuit court.

Magistrate Fenstermaker presided over the following traffic cases last week: Riley L. Lane of Chandlerville, failure to yield right of way, $20; Raymond J. Linebeck of Springfield, speeding, $21.

Lesser violations were handled on written pleas of guilty and fines assessed by Mrs. Brown from a schedule approved by the court; speeding violations, Robert L. Clemens, Peoria, $15; David A. Gratton, Pittsfield, $8; William C. Neal, Waverly, $15; Sherman H. Wheeler, Mt. Sterling, $10; Gary L. Farmer, Modesto, $15; Harry V. Price, 404 N. Prairie, $11; Stephen L. School For Emotionally Disturbed Has Grads Doing Well In College

By DAVID NYHAN
BELMONT, Mass. (AP) — A school for pupils from a hospital for the emotionally disturbed is sending more than half its graduates on to college, where they hope to match the records of last year's seniors.

It is the Arlington School, on the grounds of McLean Hospital, a division of the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Dr. Francis de Marneffe called the school "one of the most successful ventures ever undertaken by the hospital" in his commencement address Thursday.

He is director of the hospital, where the experiment in the education of the emotionally disturbed started five years ago. Since then, 25 of the 75 graduates have gone to college. All eleven seniors graduated

Thursday, and seven of them look forward to college careers. Of the same number who went on last year, six of them posted averages of "C" or better.

Headmaster John F. Dunn believes the school is the only one of its type in the country — a college preparatory course with regular teachers and structured classes, operating in a hospital.

Dunn said he has agreed not to disclose the names of the colleges which have accepted the students.

The emphasis is on education, in an island of normalcy, Dunn says, "and while we are happy if therapy occurs, our emphasis is on learning."

Housed in the ten-room home of a wealthy former patient, the school got started with $20,000 in hospital funds and a matching grant from the Ford Foundation.

There are six full-time teachers, average age 26, who are "doers, Peace Corps types," Dunn said.

"They are not trained in therapy, and do not manipulate the students, but concentrate on teaching."

There are 35 regular students and 10 who are tutored.

U.S. Sergeant Tells How 17 Held Off 250

By SGT. JIMMIE HOWARD

As Told to George Esper

CHU LAI, South Viet Nam (AP) — On the afternoon of June 13, I got word my platoon was to go on patrol at 8:30 a.m.

We were to go on Hill 488 with the mission to observe the area to the north and west of that hill, 25 miles northwest of Chu Lai.

About 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, we monitored a radio message from a Special Forces patrol to its base camp notifying the headquarters that it had spotted a Viet Cong battalion. The Special Forces patrol was about 2,000 meters southwest of my position. They spotted the battalion about 1,500 meters from my position. The Viet Cong battalion was between the two of us.

As soon as I received word of the enemy activity, I immediately made arrangements for a defensive position in case we were probed or attacked.

We received our first probe around 9:15 or 9:30. We got two more simultaneously, so we immediately withdrew to our final defensive position on the military crest of the hill. This is just off the highest point of the hill.

About 11:30 we received a full-scale assault. It was beaten off with grenades and small arms. The enemy kept up a steady fire on our position and about 45 minutes later they again made a full-scale assault.

We beat it off with the last of our grenades. They continued to fire machine guns and small arms into our position. They were within 25 meters of us.

I'm not sure of the time. Everything was happening so fast. The helicopters, the gunships we call them, were on station but they could not help us because of the closeness of the enemy and no light. They couldn't tell who was who.

Flareships came on station and started dropping flares to light up the area. With the help of the flareships, the helicopters were able to bring machine gun fire and rocket fire on the Viet Cong.

When the gunships ran out of rockets the jets took over with bomb runs and strafing.

While all this was going on, I was just being a regular platoon leader, talking to the men and moving them about.

I was cautioning them about fire discipline. Since we were already out of grenades, we threw rocks to simulate grenades to keep them at a distance. When a rock comes over they see it and immediately think it is a grenade. Then they have a tendency to jump up and move or roll over and give their positions away.

That allowed my men to have a target and this is how we made our shots count.

I manned the radio throughout the night and directed the planes to the position of the heaviest attacks. The planes kept them off of us.

I remember one thing I said: I told the pilots that if they could take care of the ones at the bottom of the hill we would take care of the ones at the top.

After those two major assaults it was continuous probes from then on.

I was wounded in the back by ricocheting fragments.

We killed some of the Viet Cong at close range. One of my corporals killed two of them with his field knife before he died.

At the end we only had eight to 12 rounds of ammunition left. They kept trying to infiltrate. A couple of times the Viet Cong yelled at us in real good English: "Marines you die in an hour!"

The things we told them couldn't be printed.

"You bastards ain't got us yet!" we yelled back.

I told my men to give them a horse laugh and we did. My idea was to take the pressure off. They were young men.

At 5:25 a.m., I yelled at the troops: "Hang on, reveille goes in 35 minutes!"

At 6 a.m. I yelled: "Reveille, everybody up!"

They were young men. I said men, not kids. They were 17 of the greatest men God ever put on this earth.

However, those gals not planning to go to Virginia are welcome to participate in regular Tuesday Golf at Nichols Park. Bill Lynn has very graciously consented to wear a skirt and take charge of the group. The event for the group attending will be low gross, low net, low putts.

Last Wednesday a group of us enjoyed participating in the Guest Day at the Jacksonville Country Club. Local winners were Marge Howard, low gross; Edna Greenier, low net; and Lucille Eberhardt, low putts. Second place low gross, Della Birdsell, low net; Liz Topf, and low putts, Evelyn Cruzan.

A number of prizes were given for unusual happenings on the course and Marge Howard supposedly had a tremendously long drive off #6 tee. I'll admit I was pleased with the shot, but I think Betty Brown, who was more excited since the ball hit very close to her. Nevertheless the day was most enjoyable and in behalf of the Nichols Park gals let me say a big THANK YOU to the Chairman, Betty Brown, her committee, and all the members of the Country Club Ladies Golf Association. Your new course is terrific and challenging to say the least.

If all goes as planned, our publicity chairman, Alpha Witman, will be playing golf this week at Virginia. This being the case her excuse of "I wasn't there, so why don't you write the column," will no longer work. So, get out your pen Alpha, you can not enjoy poor health any longer, for we miss you on the course and our readers need a break. I must conclude that I have enjoyed writing these past two weeks. I didn't realize just what Fran Chumley used to say about running out of things to say was really true. It was all worth while when I heard that a dear aunt of mine read last week's column twice. So long—

Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Council News

What makes Camp Shagbark so enjoyable? The most important factor contributing to a worthwhile experience is the preparation and training beforehand. Not only is the Camp Director a person with a keen interest in camping, but she has had camping experience and teacher training. The Senior and Cadette Scout Aides are an innovation this summer. They have had previous camping experiences as Brownie, Junior, and Cadette Scouts, and have spent several days training and preparing for the camping sessions under the guidance of the Camp Director, Bette Jackson. They are able to assist the Unit Leaders by teaching songs and games, crafts and nature study. They also help the campers during meal preparation and cleanup.

Leader and during the week she was assisted by Gay Wellenkamp, Fran Norbury, Marty Gray, Jan Bradish and Jane Worrall. Sheryl Leake was the Unit Aide.

The Winchester and Alexander Girl Scouts made up Unit V. They chose the name Five Oaks. Shirley Hornbeck was Leader. Evelyn Haggard, Ruth Porter, Pat Arbuckle and Anna Marie Gordley, all from Winchester, helped with the Unit. Those coming from Alexander were Betty Strawn, Peg Wright, Joyce Steagall, Beverly Stevenson and Shirley Spradlin. The Aide was Eleanor Applebee.

Special volunteer workers at camp this past week were Rhonda Hemphill, boating; Sgt. Robert Spain, fishing; consultant; Jean Spain, shopper, and Susan Pacotti, arts and crafts.

This was the week for unusual events. While one Unit was having nature study a frog jumped up and hit one girl in the mouth. Needless to say, the frog was caught and the mouth thoroughly washed out. Quite a few turtles, crawdads, tadpoles and small catfish were captured and several Scouts were brave enough to catch a small water snake.

Next week will be the last week of camping at Shagbark. Thursday evening will again be parents night for visiting, but we want to extend a sincere invitation to all who would like to see Girl Scout camping first hand to visit any time Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday from 9:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. Hostess campers will take you on a guided tour of the campsite. See you at Shagbark!

Washington Parties Now Really Swinging

By KELLY SMITH
WASHINGTON (AP) — The waiter placed the hunk of beef in the middle of the low coffee-style table. The guest panicked. No forks, no knives, not even a spoon.

The old hands dug in, a la Arabic.

The music started. Longhairs strummed their steel guitars and the chandeliers shook. The guest looked around: two pairs of pajamas on the dance floor.

In Washington nowadays, one doesn't have to attend night after night of similar banquet hall dinners served in the old formal ways. There are new people on the scene who do things differently.

At the Moroccan Embassy, you dine in the king's beach tent.

Ambassador Dr. Ahmed Laraki and his pretty wife, Badia, gave a swinging party for 100 in honor of Ali and Jackie Bengeloun, their predecessors on embassy row.

Cocktails were served in doors, in the striped Moroccan room. Then, mulling over a lawn still damp from rain, guests tiptoed outside to a white canvas marquee, said to be the king's weekend beach retreat.

It's ornate, brocaded gold, red and green interior blended into an Arabian Nights atmosphere: low leather cushions around low brass tables, carpets on the lawn, whole roast lambs, wine, burning incense and conversation in French, English and Arabic.

A belly dancer, imported from a local night club, entertained during dessert.

Inside, the Hangmen, a long-haired combo specializing in gyrations, warmed up.

Barbara Howard, blonde socialite friend of Luci Baines Johnson, wore pajamas. So did Yolande B. Fox, the former Miss America from Alabama.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP)—The supply of butcher hogs last week was the smallest since last August and the market for all weights was steady to 81 higher.

The offerings of 15,500 head compared with 24,000 for the week earlier. The top price of $27.40, paid on Wednesday, compared with the previous week's $26 peak.

The average price for the week was estimated at $25.70, highest since March. It compared with $24.42 the previous week and $24.68 a year ago.

Slaughter steers were steady to 50 cents lower. For all grades, prices averaged $25.25 a hundredweight, down 25 cents from the previous week and 25 cents from the comparable period last year.

Spring slaughter lambs finished the week fully 50 cents lower.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market went through a nervous week, showing a flash of strength which was quickly obliterated.

Rumors and news about international events were factors. So was the technical condition of the market.

More stocks declined than advanced on the New York Stock Exchange, the score being 730 to 670, among the 1,555 issues traded.

Thanks to scattered strength among some of its 30 Blue Chip components, however, the Dow Jones industrial average showed a net gain of 2.90 at 897.16. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks took a loss of 1.2 at 320.9.

The week's volume total was 35,694,350 shares compared with 37,307,620 the previous week.

As in the previous week, the Dow Jones industrials once again climbed above the significant 900 level. They closed at 901.00 on Wednesday. The reading at noon on Thursday was 904.12. If this gain were held it would have represented a new recovery high since the spring collapse.

The rise faded, however, amid confirmed rumors from Washington. One concerned a possible high-level conference concerning the future handling of the Viet Nam hostilities. Another was a rumor of a conference about economic matters.

Corporate reports about Douglas Aircraft were discouraging and this previous big gainer ended the week with a net loss of 8 1/2. Selling in Douglas spread to some other high flyers among the aerospace, airline and electronics groups.

Corporate bond prices advanced in the face of heavy offerings — $400 million — the largest since June 1965.

Long term governments held steady and municipals were firm. Treasuries, however, declined to the lowest level of the year, reflecting the tightened money market.

GRAIN FUTURES HAVE LIVELY WEEK

CHICAGO (AP)—The livestock trade the grain futures market has experienced in many years swamped its clearing house twice last week and produced further very sharp price advances.

Old crop soybeans added another 20 cents a bushel or more without showing more than a feeble show of resistance. All contracts of that commodity, as well as wheat and corn, again hit season high levels.

The grains encountered a little resistance from time to time, but it was limited almost entirely to profit cashing as speculators shied away from the short side of the market almost entirely.

Tuesday, the trade volume of corn hit a record peak of 72.4 million bushels and the total of all grains and soybeans for the day amounted to 242.4 million bushels.

Weather, talk of dwindling supplies, slow movement of wheat to market and statements in Washington were major factors.

The strongest single influence was a speech by Vice President Hubert Humphrey in which he said the long period of surplus, particularly of wheat, is over and that there was some concern about maintenance of adequate supplies.

A mildly bearish influence came Friday when Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman was quoted as saying the danger of wheat scarcity can and will be averted.

At the end of the week, wheat was 5 to 6 cents a bushel higher, July 1.85 3/4-86; corn 4 1/4-7 1/2 higher, July 1.33; oats 3 1/2-4 1/2 higher, July 73 1/2 cents; soybeans 8 1/4 to 22 cents higher, July 53 1/2-55.

may provide life-long immunity. During the mumps season this spring, 61 of 100 unvaccinated children known to have been exposed to the disease came down with it. But only two of 100 vaccinated youngsters got mumps.

Researchers say the Jeryl Lynn strain can be altered sufficiently so as not to cause mumps but still be capable of building immunity.

The new vaccine is not yet available for general use. It must undergo broader testing before it can be considered for licensing by the U.S. government.

Catholic Church Restores Ties With Yugoslavia

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—The Roman Catholic Church re-established diplomatic relations with Yugoslavia Saturday in a break-through accord that could lead to similar ties with other Communist nations.

The agreement signed here to exchange envoys once more between Belgrade and Vatican City marked a major turning point for the Communist world and the church in their evolving efforts to live together peacefully.

Relations between the Vatican and Yugoslavia were broken 14 years ago in an atmosphere of mutual bitterness and hostility.

Officials here termed the accord a triumph of Yugoslav diplomacy. The Yugoslavs had been working carefully step by step for the past several years to set the stage for an acceptable agreement.

In Rome, the Vatican hailed the accord as an "important point of arrival" and an even more important basis for "future developments" in relations with the Communist world.

Vatican experts saw the accord as pointing the way toward similar agreements with other nations, including the Soviet Union itself.

Break-through

They evaluated the development as a break-through in Vatican policy begun by the late Pope John XXIII and carried forward by his successor, Pope Paul VI, to seek better relations with Communist governments.

The accord gives the Vatican a formal diplomatic mission in a Communist capital for the first time since 1952.

The accord was signed in the Government Palace by the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Agostino Casaroli, undersecretary for extraordinary ecclesiastical affairs in the Vatican State Secretariat, and by Milutin Moraca, president of the Yugoslav government committee for religious affairs.

It calls for the "exchange of semi-official representatives, to whom will be guaranteed privileges and immunity accorded to diplomatic representatives."

Pope Paul hinted in a speech Friday that the representatives eventually could be upgraded to the rank of ambassadors.

Yugoslavia guaranteed to the Catholic Church the free exercise jurisdiction over the church in Yugoslavia in questions of a religious character.

The Vatican promised that its clergymen in Yugoslavia would abstain from political activities.

Both sides pledged to correct any violations on either side.

The break in relations on Dec. 27, 1952, had followed Pope Pius XII's appointment of Archbishop Alojzije Stepinac of Zagreb as cardinal. Yugoslavia had accused him of Nazi collaboration during the war.

militant group than either SCLC or CORE.

SNCC leaders have been muttering angrily since the march accepted a compromise in Canton and held a rally Friday night — instead of again trying to put up the two big tents the marchers use for night quarters.

An effort to raise the tents on the grounds of a Negro school Thursday night, in defiance of the city's refusal to allow such action, was repulsed by a barrage of police tear gas.

Confere

The conference in Jackson, Miss., was leading the "march" down U.S. 91, lasted about five hours. Asked why it took so long to repair a "temporary breakdown in communications," a King aide said much of this time was spent discussing the program for Sunday's march on the Capitol in Jackson, which lies eight miles south of Tougaloo.

Tougaloo is the site of Tougaloo College, a predominantly Negro school.

In Jackson, the state backed off from its decision to bar the marchers from the Capitol grounds.

The new plan was to permit construction of a speaking platform on the grounds. However, city and state police would be stationed around the building to guard demonstrators from getting on the Capitol steps or into the building.

A spokesman said a company of military police from the State National Guard would be stationed behind the Capitol "for use as needed."

A detachment of highway patrolmen guarded Meredith and the other marchers as they strode along the shoulder of the highway.

Meredith, celebrating his 33rd birthday, had planned to stroll with comedian Dick Gregory, Mrs. Gregory and a few friends. But there were some 250 persons assembled outside their courthouse in Canton when they arrived and they trailed along. The column continued to swell with each mile.

"We want freedom, we want freedom," the marchers chanted early in the day.

Asks Quiet

"Tell 'em to hold it down," said Meredith, a former Air Force sergeant. They were silent thereafter.

Negroes drove to the marching group, got out of their cars, walked up to Meredith, grasped his hand, then fell into the column.

The slender Negro, first of his race to attend the University of Mississippi, started the march June 5 at Memphis, Tenn. He was shot the next day near Hernando, Miss. A white man, Aubrey Norvell of Memphis, is freed under a $25,000 bond on attempted murder charges in connection with the ambush.

Asked why he had decided to resume his trek at Canton rather than join those who had taken it up after he had been wounded, Meredith replied: "Because the Mississippi people didn't have enough hand in it."

The nation's top civil rights leaders, headed by King, the chief of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, rushed in to continue the march from Hernando while Meredith, now a Columbia University law student, recuperated in New York.

They took the procession off U.S. 51—the route planned by Meredith—leading it through the cotton-growing Delta region. Voter registration rallies were held at courthouses along the route.

"Some Good"

"The people I have taken to along the way have told me they haven't been entirely satisfied with the march, but they thought it had accomplished some good," Meredith said.

Asked if there were any animosity between him and King, Meredith laughed nervously, replying: "No. But there have been some shenanigans going on that I don't like."

He didn't elaborate.

Meredith talked to Canton law enforcement officers inside the courthouse for several minutes. When he emerged he said he would walk only to the town limits because "the police have

TRAIN DRAGS MAN WHO IGNORES SIGNAL

DANVILLE, Ill. (AP)—A man who failed to heed repeated warning blasts of a train whistle was struck and killed early Saturday, an engineer told police.

The man, later identified as Tillman Allen Jr., 21, was seated on a rail car when a paper sack, said J.E. Proctor of Danville, engineer of a Chicago and Eastern Illinois local freight train.

Allen remained on the tracks even after several blasts from the train's whistle, Proctor said. He said the train was moving at 10-miles-an-hour but that Allen, a Danville construction worker, was struck and dragged 132 feet.

Police found a package of barbeque ribs at the spot where he had been seated.

Secrecy

The Soviet Union has maintained great secrecy about its space installations, forbidding visits by foreigners and letting out only bits and pieces of information about their activities.

Inviting De Gaulle to Baikonur would seem to have been a gesture meant to dramatize a respect and trust the Kremlin places in him. The general has been heavily praised here for his "realistic" foreign policy, and the Soviet press has expressed optimism about the results of his visit.

De Gaulle left Novosibirsk early Saturday after a stay that produced crowds in the tens of thousands to welcome him. He praised Siberia for its great strides toward industrialization.

The general planned to stay in Leningrad until Monday.

A spokesman for the strikers said they want raises to meet increased living costs up 55 per cent in the past year—and to keep their earnings in line with those of Vietnamese government employees, given a general increase a week ago.

Construction work that is held up includes projects in the crowded port of Saigon and at the capital's Tan Son Nhut Airport.

The heaviest field action of the day evidently centered in the central highlands only two miles north of the Ia Drang Valley, where U.S. air cavalrymen mauling a North Vietnamese regular regiment last November.

A spokesman said soldiers of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division had killed 53 Communists of a battalion, perhaps 500 men, first engaged Thursday in that area, 35 miles southwest of Pleiku. That boosted the count for the three days to 90.

Operation Ebbs

Action in Operation Nathan Hale, 110 miles away on the coastal side of the highlands, ebbed somewhat after a night fight in which Communist gunners shot down the transport helicopter and hit about a dozen others. The Americans reported they had killed 22 North Vietnamese, boosting the total of the six-day operation to 384.

Among other field developments:

A task force of several battalions of South Vietnamese troops reported it had engaged a Viet Cong battalion in an eight-hour fight in the Mekong delta 40 miles southwest of Saigon, killing 33, capturing 3 and overrunning enemy fortifications. A spokesman said Vietnamese casualties were light.

A South Korean patrol announced it had killed 21 Viet Cong in a skirmish before dawn with a Red company north of the coastal city of Qui Nhon.

U.S. Navy and Air Force pilots flew 59 multiplane missions over North Viet Nam Friday. A spokesman said they had concentrated on supply, fuel storage and rail targets in the southern section of the country and near the Mu Gia Pass, a gateway to the Ho Chi Minh trail through Communist-held eastern Laos.

Newsman Draw Sukarno's Anger

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Indonesian President Sukarno angrily brushed off newsmen's questions Saturday about rising attacks on his rule and declared that the Malaysian confrontation was continuing.

Sukarno encountered reporters after a hastily called meeting of the ruling inner Cabinet, at his mountain palace at Bogor, near Jakarta.

As he met with the six-man Cabinet, more than 8,000 students massed outside the congress hall in Jakarta and demanded Sukarno's complete removal from power.

Massive student demonstrations in February and March forced Sukarno to relinquish much of his power to a military-civilian group headed by Lt. Gen. Suharto. The Provisional People's Consultative Congress, the country's highest legislative body, went into session last Monday and endorsed the transfer of power to Suharto.

The congress also is being pressured to strip Sukarno of his title of president for life and to give a mandate to Suharto to form a new Cabinet.

After the meeting in Bogor, a spokesman said the group discussed the criticism against Sukarno in congress and the nation's economy and Malaysia.

Suharto also briefed Sukarno on progress of the peace talks with Malaysia and Singapore, the spokesman said.

Sukarno, in uniform, emerged shortly after and was asked his reaction to the criticism of him in congress.

"Wait and see," he replied.

Sukarno became angry when pressed on the congress issue and his address to it Wednesday. The speech was severely criticized for failing to discuss real issues.

COUPLE MARRIED ON NAVY VESSEL

CHICAGO (AP) — The bride wore blue, and the groom wore white for a wedding performed Saturday on the fantail of the destroyer escort Parle.

Miss Irene Gonsolves, 40, of Key West, Fla., was married to Chief Petty Officer Norman L. Roth, 43, head of the ship's commissary — a department the new Mrs. Roth announced she will control in her home.

The two met four years ago in Key West while Roth was stationed at the naval base there. Last week, the Parle's 100-man crew brought her to Chicago, and Judge Jacob M. Braude of Circuit Court performed the ceremony.

Events came in quick succession after Roth was asked by his shipmates why he didn't marry Irene, because he talked about her so much. Roth said he'd be happy to marry her if the crew could bring her to the ship.

The hat was passed and $73 raised for plane fare.

The shipboard wedding was performed under sunny skies while the Parle lay alongside the Naval Armory dock on Chicago's Lake Michigan waterfront. The crew were on deck, and so were about 150 civilian guests.

Miss Jean Glover of Oak Park, Roth's sister, was matron of honor, and Lt. (jg) William Brown of Savannah, Ga., the Parle's skipper, was the groom's best man.

After a 15-day honeymoon furlough, the couple will settle in Chicago.

Lucas was preparing to turn right from the highway when the Lewis truck struck the rear of the automobile.

Lewis was cited for failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident. No injuries were reported to state police.

CUB REPORTER DIES BEFORE HIS BIG STORY BREAKS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—A cub reporter whose first big story was lined up for Sunday's front page of the Indianapolis Star was killed Saturday in a traffic accident.

Stephen A. Haynes, 26, who planned to be married a week from Saturday, died in a two-car collision en route to his Marion home from a bachelor party.

Haynes spent two weeks masquerading as a drunk to prepare a series of articles on the underworld of the deliric. He served one week in the Marion County Jail after being arrested as a common drunk.

City Editor Larry Connor said the series, "Another World," would be published daily for the next two weeks as scheduled.

A large advertisement in Saturday's newspaper billed the reporter as having returned "from another world—a world few people know about."

SECOND TIME AROUND BEST

A racing-minded Jacksonville man has found 'the second time around' to be a most successful one, although not too profitable. Phil Howard is actually two years into his second fling at outboard hydro-plane boat racing, and has turned in an excellent record thus far this summer.

Howard says he wanted to race from the time he was 15 years old, and hydro-plane racing was about the only form he could get into. He raced the boats for eight years, then quit for six. After getting out of service, he took it up again two summers ago.

Howard got started in the game while living in Northern Illinois, running around the Chicago area quite a bit. His 50 horse power engine runs in what is termed 'professional or modified' racing, with a 'souped-up' motor. The boat runs on alcohol and will hit about 75 MPH. "It's dangerous, but so's driving a car down the street," says Howard. "This is not to be confused with the bigger stuff, the inboards, the type race in which three drivers were killed in Washington, D.C., last weekend. The biggest difference there is about $100,000 and a lot more horse power, because they run airplane engines in their boats."

"I run about every Sunday, about 14-16 races a year. We race all over the Midwest, under the auspices of the American Power Boat Association and the National Outboard Association."

"I will run at Hamilton this Sunday. There are some outboard races around St. Louis, but very few around this area. This type racing is popular in its own group, as far as the spectators go, but is much more popular farther north. There is a lot of it around Michigan and Wisconsin."

When asked if there was any money to be made in hydro-plane racing, Howard replied, "About enough to get a good steak on the way home. We've been doing pretty good this year. Out of six races I have won five, and I have been pretty lucky. It's just a hobby with me and I really enjoy it, but I would sure hate to make a living doing it."

Howard reports he has had a few accidents and flipped a couple of times, but has never been injured.

AAU Hurdle Mark Broken In Nationals

NEW YORK (AP) — Defending champion Willie Davenport broke a meet record in winning the 120-yard high hurdles and two other meet marks were tied Saturday as a star-studded field battled for National AAU outdoor track and field titles and berths on America's international team.

Davenport, who won the hurdles last year in 13.6, took it this time in 13.3, edging Don Shy of the 49er Track Club of Los Angeles. The time was one-tenth of a second faster than the record set by Jack Davis of 1956 and tied by Jerry Tarr and Hayes Jones.

Bob Seagren of the Southern California Striders, who has a pending world record of 17.3 for the pole vault, tied the meet mark of 17 feet in beating teammates Paul Wilson and John Pennel. The latter two tied at 16 1/4, with Wilson winning second on fewer misses.

This earned Wilson, a Southern California freshman, a place on the U.S. team which will meet Poland at Berkeley, Calif., July 16-17 and Russia at Los Angeles July 23-24.

The first two placers in each of 19 finals, except the walk, will earn berths on the squad. Eight finals were run off Saturday with 11 scheduled for the Sunday windup.

Lee Evans, 18-year-old freshman from San Jose, Calif., City College, tied the meet record for the 440-yard run in winning his semifinal in 48.8. Evans, favored Theron Lewis, winner of his semifinal in 46.3, and six other fleet quarter-milers will race it out in the final Sunday.

Qualifying heats also were run off in the mile and 800-yard events.

The mile times were disappointing to the crowd of about 8,000 at Downing Stadium as Jim Ryun, the 19-year-old sensation from Kansas, and his two major rivals, Oregonians Dyrrol Burleson and Jim Grelle, jockeyed to finalist berths in easy fashion.

Ryun just opened up in the last 200 yards to win his heat by about five yards over Charles Christmas of Abilene Christian College in 4:06.4. Neil Duggan, a Briton running for the Pasadena A.A., was third and John Cammen of the New York A.C. fourth.

Burleson won the other heat in 4:06.2, with Grelle second in 4:07.2. Schoolboy Tim Danielson of the San Diego Track Club was third and Richard Romo of San Antonio fourth.

The first four in each heat qualified for the eight-man final. New Yorkers are hoping for the big city's first outdoor sub-four minute mile when the chips are down Sunday.

Braves Sweep Two From Los Angeles

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Braves swept a day-night doubleheader from Los Angeles Saturday, winning the opener 5-4 and taking the nightcap 4-3, handing Dodger right-hander Don Drysdale his sixth straight loss and 10th of the season.

The doubleheader sweep was Atlanta's first this year, with a crowd of 47,226 watching the night game after 32,063 turned out in the afternoon.

Pitcher Tony Cloninger singled in two runs and blanked the Dodgers for six innings in the nightcap before Tommy Davis singled and Jim Lefebvre lined a hit off the Atlanta pitcher's foot. Limping, Cloninger went back to the mound but was tagged for a three-run homer by John Roseboro.

Cloninger was lifted after the seventh inning but got credit for his eighth victory against seven losses.

The Braves built a 4-0 lead with one run in the first inning and a three-run uprising in the sixth capped by Cloninger's two-run single.

The Braves won the afternoon game with home runs by Joe Torre, Rico Carty and pitcher Ken Johnson, who checked the Dodgers on seven hits in his first complete game in 14 tries against Los Angeles.

The Dodgers took a 3-2 lead on a solo homer by Lou Johnson and a two-run blast by Willie Davis, but the Braves wrapped up the victory with a three-run uprising in the sixth capped by Carty's solo homer.

Figuring Schedule For NL A Headache

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
CINCINNATI — (NEA) — The National League very innocently lists Fred C. Fleig as its secretary.

Fred C. Fleig wishes his job were that simple.

Fleig is:
• Supervisor of the National League schedule.
• Supervisor of the National League umpires.

He has been doing this for the last 15 years. His next job may be with the United Nations because no one is more adept at handling complaints than Fred Fleig.

After the Memorial Day weekend, most of the complaints on Fleig's desk were aimed at the schedule.

Three teams — the Phillies, Mets and Dodgers — made cross-country trips after playing Sunday afternoon games on the West Coast.

The Mets and Phillies, after early-morning arrivals in New York, struggled through a doubleheader the next afternoon (1:05 p.m.) at Shea Stadium while the Dodgers had a 7 p.m. game at Atlanta.

"There's always some grumbling," Fleig said. "But I've spoken to the players and tried to tell them our side. Most of them understand."

Schedule-making is one of the most unpublicized complexities in baseball.

"You have to take so many things into account," Fleig said, "like holidays, Sundays, the American League schedules, what teams draw better on what days."

"I have figures showing what every club in the league draws on certain days. In Chicago, for example, Wednesday is the best weekday."

"In making the schedule certain rules must be followed. With Chicago playing only day home games, this sometimes is a problem."

"For example, you cannot, except in the case of a rain-out, schedule a day-doubleheader after a night game. And you cannot play an afternoon game following a night game unless you get the players' permission."

"Keeping this in mind, you try to help the clubs as much as possible. But there is no such thing as a perfect schedule."

The National League, Fleig explained, works on a mathematical 2-3-4 system which sounds more like some type of football defense.

"It works like this," he said. "We have three geographical groupings: the East (Phillies, Mets, Pirates), the Midwest

City Power Travels To Taylorville

Jacksonville City Power will travel to Taylorville this afternoon for a Little Eight League contest that will knock one team out of second place in the standings.

Both clubs are 2-1 in the loop, along with Springfield, which handed Jacksonville its initial defeat last Sunday. Taylorville has beaten Decatur and Florence, and lost to league-leading Riverton.

Either Rich Coble or George Kording will start on the mound for City Power this afternoon. Both threw last week, with Coble getting the loss, his first in three decisions.

The team will leave at 12 noon from the Drexel today. City Power will play the Virginia American Legion team at Nichols Park Wednesday night at 8:15, in a practice contest.

Daytona Gets Strong And Fast Racing Machines

By RICHARD PETTY
All race drivers know "If you can't finish, you can't win." That's why, to the best of their ability and resources, they work hard to build their race cars as strong as possible.

No stock car race demands tougher cars than the long races at Daytona, where you must go full blast all the way for 400 or 500 miles with the car taking terrific punishment at every point from the tortuous strain of speeds reaching and exceeding 175 miles per hour.

Here at Petty Engineering we build our cars built-strong. Someone once said they were as tough as a Sherman tank. That's an exaggeration, of course, but our foremost effort in preparing a race car — especially for one of the Daytona grinds — is directed toward making it as strong and as tough as safe as possible.

Then we think of speed — of making it as fast as possible.

Different At Daytona
We set up our Daytona cars different in a few respects from the set-up of cars for other superspeedways. We install bigger springs and heavier shocks. We adjust the front end to cope with the faster speeds required by the Daytona track with its steep banks. Because of the terrific onrush of air caused by speeds on the world's fastest raceway, we run our cars at Daytona with the windows closed — at all other tracks we run with the windows open.

The Plymouth we shall race at the Firecracker 400 is not the same car in which we won the Daytona 500 last February. Not even the same chassis. It'll be a completely rebuilt job.

Our top man in this phase of work is my cousin, Dale Inman, and we think he's the best. We grew up together in stock car racing. He's the same guy I am; we went to school together; and we learned about racing together under my Dad. Structurally, he builds a car to last. And he builds it safe.

And let me tell you, knowing your car is going to hold together, barring an unexpected mishap, in the blistering Daytona race not only gives the driver the maximum of confidence.

Believe me, you also get a mighty comfortable feeling.

TITLED HERO WINS QUEEN'S PLATE
TORONTO (AP) — Titled Hero, the heavy favorite, won the 107th running of the $80,175 Queen's Plate Saturday at Woodbine, opening up three lengths on Bye And Near down the stretch of the oldest continuously run stakes race in North America.

Bright Monarch was third, 6 1/4 lengths back, and Holarctic was fourth in the classic for Canadian 3-year-olds.

The race, run with British pomp and panoply in 93-degree heat before 25,846, paid $52-113.75 to the winner. The time for the 1 1/4 miles was 2:03 3/5.

MINT OLYMPIC MEDALS
MUNICH, Germany (AP) — Munich still must wait six years before it plays host to the Olympics but the state mint already is striking gold and silver Olympic medals.

However, they are the kind you buy rather than win and are designed to commemorate the International Olympic Committee's decision to hold the 1972 summer games in the Bavarian capital.

Cuellar Whiffs 15 As Cards Fall, 3-2

8th In Row

HOUSTON (AP) — Undeclared Mike Cuellar won his sixth game for Houston by scattering seven hits and the Astros made the most of four errors for a 3-2 victory over St. Louis Saturday night.

The Astros scored in the first inning on an inside-the-park homer by Sonny Jackson, then pushed across unearned runs in the fourth and seventh.

In the fourth, Rusty Staub singled and when pitcher Ray Washburn threw wild, Staub went to second. Phil Gagliano's error on Dave Nicholson's grounder moved Staub to third.

Bob Aspromonte then grounded into a force out at second but home plate was left unguarded and Staub scored when Julian Javier's throw went wild.

Cuellar struck out 15 — high in the majors this season. He walked three.

Perez hit beat Frank Linzy, who had relieved starter Juan Marichal at the start of the 10th. Marichal, trying for his 14th victory, allowed just three hits before leaving for a pinch runner.

He retired 12 straight batters after allowing a leadoff homer in the sixth to Tommy Harper, which tied the score.

White, Allen Pound Homers As Phils Win, 8-7

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Homers by Bill White and Rich Allen and a triple by Dick Groat powered Philadelphia to an 8-7 victory over Pittsburgh Saturday night after a wild 48-minute first inning.

Groat tripled in the lead run in the sixth, breaking a 5-5 tie, and also had a double, single and another run batted in.

White's 12th homer, also scoring Cookie Rojas, iced the game in the seventh.

Allen's homer, No. 16, bounced off the left-field roof in the second.

Both starting pitchers went to the showers in the first—Phil left-hander Chris Short retiring only one batter and Pirate right-hander Vern Law just two.

Reds Edge Giants In 10 Innings 3-2

CINCINNATI (AP) — Tony Perez' pinch single in the 10th inning drove in Chico Ruiz with the winning run as the streaking Cincinnati Reds won their eighth straight game Saturday night, edging San Francisco 3-2.

Johnny Edwards singled with one out and after Ruiz forced pinch runner Dick Simpson, Leo Cardenas beat out a slow roller, setting the stage for Perez, who batted for winning pitcher Billy McCool.

Perez' hit beat Frank Linzy, who had relieved starter Juan Marichal at the start of the 10th. Marichal, trying for his 14th victory, allowed just three hits before leaving for a pinch runner.

Vote 5 Veteran College Diamond Coaches To Hall

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Five veteran coaches who have made important contributions to the development of collegiate baseball have been voted into the College Baseball Hall of Fame, situated on the Western Michigan University Campus at Kalamazoo.

John (Hi) Simmons, Missouri coach and president of the American Association of College Baseball Coaches, announced their election Saturday.

The new Hall of Fame members are Paul Eckley of Amherst College, Bill McCarthy of New York University, Frank G. McCormick of Minnesota, Clarke Noble of Mississippi State and Glenn Martin of Southern Illinois.

McCormick, Noble and McCarthy have retired from coaching.

Eckley is a Cornell graduate, served as athletic director and baseball coach there and taught anatomy at the medical school before moving to Amherst in 1937, where his teams have dominated the Little Three Conference.

McCarthy, a three-sport star at Holy Cross and Lehigh, retired at NYU in 1961 after a 40-year baseball coaching record of 462 victories and 251 defeats.

McCormick, a father of the American Legion Junior Baseball program, was Minnesota's director of athletics and baseball coach until 1942 and won Big Ten crowns in 1933 and in 1935. After Army service he returned as director of athletics and gave up coaching. He was an outstanding athlete at South Dakota.

Noble was a four-sport star at Mississippi State and coached baseball there for 30 years until 1948, when he devoted all his time to the post of athletic director.

Martin was a football and a track star at Southern Illinois and has just completed his 28th year of baseball coaching at SIU. He has also served as athletic director and football coach at SIU. In 1959 the State Department sent Martin to Israel and The Netherlands as a good will instructor in baseball.

By the time that competition was to begin, it was misting and then came the rains. Officials waited three hours before calling off play for the day.

Only 11 of the 64 matches on the program were completed. Because of England's Blue Laws, there will be no play Sunday and competition will be resumed Monday.

22-1 LONGSHOT IN NEW WORLD'S MARK

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Perfect Freight, a 22-1 longshot, turned in one of harness racing's biggest upsets by winning the $89,111 Realization Trot at Roosevelt Raceway Saturday night in the world record time of 2:06 3/5 for the 1 1/16 miles.

After the even-money favorite, Ambro Flight, and Noble Victory, the third choice, went offside at the first turn, Perfect Freight, reigned by Del Insko, stormed down the middle of the stretch over All Affame, the second choice.

It was the first stakes victory for the 4-year-old colt by Star's Pride out of Pebble Hanover, owned by the ABC Stables of New York.

All Affame finished second followed by Evans Hanover, an entry with Sharp Rodney.

The previous record was 2:08 4/5, set by Duke Rodney in 1962 and equaled by Dartmouth in 1964.

Terrell Defends Title On Tuesday

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Fancy jabbing Ernie Terrell, insisting he is the only heavyweight champion in the world, defends his World Boxing Association title Tuesday night against slugging Doug Jones, the No. 2 challenger.

A near capacity crowd of about 10,000 is expected in Sam Houston Coliseum for Texas' first heavyweight championship bout with thousands more to watch closed-circuit television in some 70 theaters and arenas around the country. There will be no home television or radio.

The WBA recognizes Terrell instead of Cassius Clay as heavyweight champion and Terrell says that makes him the sole possessor of the title.

"I am the World Boxing Association champion, the only bona fide boxing association in the world, so I am the only world champion," Terrell said.

"If I am to be referred to as the WBA champion, then Cassius Clay must be referred to as some other kind of champion. It's not fair to boxing, me or Doug Jones."

"Clay Broke Rules"
"You have to play according to the rules and Clay broke those rules. I've signed three contracts to fight Clay and haven't been in the ring with him yet. He always manages to talk himself out of the big fights and gets the little ones. He saves the big ones for me."

Many persons close to the fight game feel Terrell has one of the best left hands in boxing but Jones says he is not impressed.

"From the fights I have seen him in all he did was jab and grab," Jones said.

Terrell, 27, a 6-foot-6 Chicago native, is expected to come into the ring weighing around 213, some 20 pounds heavier than his New York challenger. Jones, 29, stands 6-1.

Records of the two fighters indicate the fight might go the scheduled 15 rounds.

Terrell has a 38-4 record with 18 knockouts to his credit. He has won 14 straight fights and has not lost since he was knocked out by Cleveland Williams in 1962, the only knockout he has suffered.

Jones' record shows 29 victories, six losses and one draw. He has scored 19 knockouts and has knocked out his last six opponents.

Between You'n Me

NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSOCIATION

CLEVELAND — (NEA) — When the massive pain gripped George (Birdie) Tebbetts across his chest, he knew right away what it was.

"I'm afraid," he said, "this is the big daddy."

Birdie, manager of the Cleveland Indians, suffered his heart attack a little more than two years ago, and outwardly he's a changed man. The ballooned puffs, some of which accrued when he was a baseball executive (vice president of the Milwaukee Braves for two years), has been replaced by a well-wrinkled neck.

But the essential temperament remains.

"I get just as mad as I ever did," reflected Birdie, "and get over it just as quick."

Has the heart attack changed his life in any way?

"I stay within the rules. I don't run. I walk. I don't climb. I don't lift, push or pull. But I don't get as much exercise as I should because I don't get the chance as a manager."

"Otherwise, I'm only doing what every normal person should do and doesn't do. If I had done what I should have done before, I wouldn't have had the heart attack."

Birdie pondered the subject a moment.

"I know of only one umpire who's had a heart attack, and one player. That fellow (Al) Barlick over in the National League and that catcher with the Cardinals (Hank Smith)."

Both of them, like Tebbetts, returned to active baseball, though Smith's playing days were over and he's now a coach with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"General managers," continued Tebbetts, "apparently don't get heart attacks."

"Someone," said a writer, "should tell that to Ralph Houk. He shortened his life expectancy when he became a manager."

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Bill France can measure the progress in stock car racing in this country by the moon, and the fact he no longer has to consult lunar tables before he stages an event.

Bill is the big, ambling gent who founded and runs the National Association of Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR). He's concurrently the president of the Daytona Beach (Fla.) Speedway, where they have a 400-mile Firecracker event coming up July 4.

Before that 2½-mile banked oval was built, Bill couldn't do a thing without the full moon.

His long shadow on the midnight sands wasn't a local menace. They used to run Daytona events on the beach, and because the full moon has an effect on the tides, Bill had to wait until just the right time of month to be assured of the widest possible beach for racing.

The other day, driver Paul Goldsmith took a Chevrolet down the stretch at a speed of 176 miles an hour, with no cops in sight. If there are no cracks, France anticipates a winning time of 160 miles an hour in this year's Firecracker 400, and that includes at least three pit stops for each car.

Richard Petty drives a Plymouth and earned $132,000 a year ago. David Pearson, the current leader, wheels a Dodge. France sees them identified some day in the Willie Mays-John Unitas syndrome.

"If it hadn't been for Yankee Stadium," he argues, "there wouldn't have been any big league baseball. That was his birth. We've already got some major league speedways in NASCAR. Also, Atlanta's running a 300-mile Indy championship car event on June 26. Charlotte has a big mile-and-a-half track."

In Ontario, Calif., a group is projecting a $25 million racing complex.

When France made some grandstand additions at Daytona, he told Harley Earl, an associate, "We're gonna make the foundations strong enough so that we can double-deck 'em."

"No, Bill," advised Harley, "make them strong enough for triple decking. Twenty years from now, somebody'll still be racing around this speedway, and your audience will come from 300 million people instead of 175 million."

With or without a full moon.

REDS SIGN 12 ROOKIES

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds have signed 12 rookies, seven of whom were drafted at the recent major league free agent draft.

Among them was the Reds third draft choice, Mike Oates, a right-handed pitcher from Glen Ellyn, Ill. He just graduated from Glenbard High School in Glen Ellyn.

Five other drafted players signed include right-handed pitcher Bob Arrage from Chicago and Claude Passeau Jr., son of the former major league pitcher from Luceville, Ala.

It was learned that Alston has been answering such questions for his biography, which will be published in the fall, hopefully about the time the Dodgers are playing in another World Series.

Alston continued, "My theory on managing, in the final analysis, is the one I've always had."

DETROIT (AP) — Al Kaline hit a two-out home run in the eighth inning Saturday, lifting Detroit to a 1-0 victory over Minnesota.

Kaline's blow into the upper right-field seats broke up the scoreless battle that saw both starters, Detroit's Denny McLain and Jim Grant of Minnesota, leave in the seventh inning.

Garry Roggenburk replaced Grant with the bases loaded and one out in the Tigers' seventh. He got pinch hitter Mickey Stanley on a fly ball and Dick McAuliffe on a grounder.

Roggenburk also got the first two outs in the eighth, but Kaline came through with his 12th homer.

They are Dan Barrett, 18, of Springfield, Mo., the Redbirds' second draft choice, and Eddie Dixon, 19, of Rockford, Tenn. Both Barrett, a shortstop, and Dixon, a pitcher-third baseman, will report to Sarasota, Fla., of the Gulf Coast League.

What Every Manager Needs To Be Great

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Walter Alston leaned back in his chair, let out a long sigh and began scratching the area below his right ear with the forefinger on his right hand.

This is usually what Alston, the dean of major league managers, does when he's been asked a question that can't be answered just by no.

Alston had just been asked if, in his 13 years as manager of the Brooklyn and Los Angeles Dodgers, he had any theories on what it takes to be a great manager.

The question should have been phrased some other way. "Yes," he said, after a 30-second pause.

Well?

Another pause and more scratching.

"Funny, but I have given that question some thought the past year or so. Ordinarily I wouldn't."

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Louis scouting director George Silvey said Friday the Cardinals have signed two of their choices in the recent free-agent draft.

They are Dan Barrett, 18, of Springfield, Mo., the Redbirds' second draft choice, and Eddie Dixon, 19, of Rockford, Tenn. Both Barrett, a shortstop, and Dixon, a pitcher-third baseman, will report to Sarasota, Fla., of the Gulf Coast League.

What Every Manager Needs To Be Great

By DAVE BURGIN

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Walter Alston leaned back in his chair, let out a long sigh and began scratching the area below his right ear with the forefinger on his right hand.

This is usually what Alston, the dean of major league managers, does when he's been asked a question that can't be answered just by no.

Alston had just been asked if, in his 13 years as manager of the Brooklyn and Los Angeles Dodgers, he had any theories on what it takes to be a great manager.

The question should have been phrased some other way. "Yes," he said, after a 30-second pause.

Well?

Another pause and more scratching.

"Funny, but I have given that question some thought the past year or so. Ordinarily I wouldn't."

On Ontario, Calif., a group is projecting a $25 million racing complex.

When France made some grandstand additions at Daytona, he told Harley Earl, an associate, "We're gonna make the foundations strong enough so that we can double-deck 'em."

"No, Bill," advised Harley, "make them strong enough for triple decking. Twenty years from now, somebody'll still be racing around this speedway, and your audience will come from 300 million people instead of 175 million."

With or without a full moon.

REDS SIGN 12 ROOKIES

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds have signed 12 rookies, seven of whom were drafted at the recent major league free agent draft.

Among them was the Reds third draft choice, Mike Oates, a right-handed pitcher from Glen Ellyn, Ill. He just graduated from Glenbard High School in Glen Ellyn.

Five other drafted players signed include right-handed pitcher Bob Arrage from Chicago and Claude Passeau Jr., son of the former major league pitcher from Luceville, Ala.

It was learned that Alston has been answering such questions for his biography, which will be published in the fall, hopefully about the time the Dodgers are playing in another World Series.

Alston continued, "My theory on managing, in the final analysis, is the one I've always had."

Come on, Smokey, what is your right ear.

DETROIT (AP) — Al Kaline hit a two-out home run in the eighth inning Saturday, lifting Detroit to a 1-0 victory over Minnesota.

Kaline's blow into the upper right-field seats broke up the scoreless battle that saw both starters, Detroit's Denny McLain and Jim Grant of Minnesota, leave in the seventh inning.

Garry Roggenburk replaced Grant with the bases loaded and one out in the Tigers' seventh. He got pinch hitter Mickey Stanley on a fly ball and Dick McAuliffe on a grounder.

The Nashville Sound, Rock 'N Roll Tops Griggsville Fair

The Western Illinois Fair in Griggsville this year will feature the two biggest trends in American entertainment—rock 'n roll and "The Nashville Sound." Leading American artists in these two fields, plus a variety of other nationally known acts, will perform this year before the free grandstand at the Griggsville fairgrounds.

The Western Illinois Fair will run from June 29-July 4, with a fair preview program Tuesday night, June 28, the night prior to the official opening.

Sam the Sham and the Pharaohs, a group which topped American popularity polls with "Woolly Bully" a short time ago, and which will also appear at the Illinois State Fair this year, will perform on Youth Night, June 29. They will appear with the Intruders, a well-known Pike County group, and then will follow with a "battle of the bands" and youth dance on the tennis courts north of the race track.

The Intruders also will play for dances four other nights—Tuesday, Saturday, Sunday, and Monday.

The "Nashville Sound," traditional country ballads set to a big modern beat—sometimes referred to as "uptown country music"—is the biggest musical trend in America. Two of its biggest names are Bill Anderson, who achieved a number one rating with "Still," and the Carter Family—Mama Maybelle, Helen and Anita. These performers will headline a Grand Ole Opry Show Saturday night, July 2, before the grandstand.

These are just two of several outstanding daily attractions.

The King Kovaz Auto Daredevil show will present afternoon and evening performances Thursday, June 30. In addition to Kovaz, from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., the show will feature Virginia "Duchess" Duncan of Los Angeles; Ray Jackson of Hollywood; 18-year veteran "Lucky" Barnes; dive bomber expert Billy Little; human battering ram Jack Barr; Hollywood stunt man Ace Doug; and the famed announcer Ray Asher.

The Gene Holter Wild Animal Show, enroute from California to Milwaukee's big July 4th celebration, will bring its complete show to Griggsville Friday afternoon and evening, July 1. This show includes the world's largest collection of trained animals.

The Gene Holter organization is located in Bloomington, Calif., and furnishes animals for television and movie productions, including such hits as "Daktari," "Lassie," "The Beverly Hillbillies," "Tarzan," "Around the World in 80 Days," and "Swiss Family Robinson."

Among the acts and exhibits will be races featuring ostriches, camels, and elephants. Ginny Tui will return to the fair after two years, this time with her entire nine-member family and the Ginny Tui Revue, a versatile group which has appeared several times on national television programs. This show will be Sunday night, July 3.

Minnie Pearl, an old favorite at the fair, will headline the closing night activities. With her will be Les Chanteurs (The Chanters), a folk singing trio; The Austins, holders of national championships in tumbling and trampolining; and the Juggling Jacksons, a four-member family group.

The fair will close with its traditional July 4th fireworks display.

Master of ceremonies throughout the fair will be Arnold Archer, one of the internationally-known team of Miller and Archer.

Harness racing will be presented the afternoons of July 2-3-4, with four races—a total of eight heats—each afternoon. The Golden Empire shows will open on the Midway Tuesday night, June 28, and will remain throughout the fair, offering a variety of rides and concessions. The Kids Day Party will be held Wednesday afternoon, with gifts, prizes, and entertainment for the kids and reduced prices on the midway.

Diamond Jubilee Near For Jersey Priest Now 100

JERSEYVILLE—In a clear, vibrant voice familiar to his parishioners for 52 years, the Reverend John J. Clancy celebrated Mass and delivered the sermon on his 100th birthday anniversary Friday at St. Francis Xavier's church where he has been pastor since October 1, 1914.

He came to Jerseyville for the occasion from St. Anthony's Hospital in Alton where he has been recuperating from a hip fracture suffered in a fall last summer and from which site he conducts many of the parish affairs.

He entered the sacristy in a wheel chair but stood during the celebration of the Mass with the help of his assistant Father Roger Simpson and Father Terrence Shea of Witt, who was his assistant prior to Father Simpson.

"This church is five years older than I am," he said, "and two of its pastors have served a total of 82 years here, Father Hardy having been here 30 years and my pastorate being for 52 years. I had planned on a celebration of the anniversary of the church last year but was prevented by my accident."

"I thank the Good Lord for granting me the privilege of being here on my 100th birthday, a favor seldom given a priest and for which I am grateful."

The spiritual contentment and piety of the centenarian was projected to his listeners when he admonished them to "keep close to God in all your undertakings. Happiness is found by loving and serving God and fulfilling his will."

"Love God," has been the credo of his long life.

At the end of benediction, Father Clancy turned to the congregation and said, "I have prayed for all of you during this Mass and I ask you now to pray for me."

The church was filled to capacity with members of his congregation, clergymen, friends in the community and many dignitaries. Included in the gathering was Associate Judge William B. Conway of Springfield who, as a boy, was an altar boy for Father Clancy when he was pastor at St. James Church in River-ton.

Father Clancy will observe his 75th year in the priesthood on August 15, the Feast of the Assumption and he has marked his silver and golden jubilee as a pastor of St. Francis Church.

Schedule Rites In Missouri For Mark Greife

Funeral services for 15-year old Mark Greife, who was found dead at his home Friday, will be held in Missouri Monday.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Greife of 1109 W. State St., was found dead when his father returned from work early Friday evening. Coroner John B. Martin said death was caused by a gunshot wound, apparently self-inflicted. The boy had been alone during the afternoon, Martin said.

A foreign-made .25 caliber automatic pistol was found on the floor of the bedroom near the youth's body. Two spent cartridges were located nearby.

The coroner said that a first shot from the pistol struck a television set in the living room, and was found on the floor.

Martin said the youth apparently died as a result of a single bullet wound. The bullet entered his head above the left temple.

The boy's father said that his son had been in good spirits, and could give no explanation for the incident. Greife said that he had lunch with his son at home at noon Friday.

Martin said that the boy had attended public school in Columbia, Mo. where his mother is a graduate student at the University of Missouri working toward a doctorate.

The coroner further stated that no note was found. An inquest will be held.

Mark Greife was born in Springfield Jan. 12, 1951; son of Richard and Corrine Clark Greife.

He is survived by his parents, one brother, Clark, at home; his grandmothers, several aunts, uncles and cousins.

Funeral services will be held at the Madison, Mo., Christian church at 2:30 p.m. Monday. Burial will be in Sunset Hill cemetery at Madison.

Friends may call at the Greife home today.

SANDY BEACH GETS LIGHTS—During the past week, mercury-vapor lights were installed along the beach-front at Sandy Beach. Saturday, trucks continued to haul sand from the K. E. Vas sand quarry near Winchester, but project officials estimate that 300 more tons are needed to fill the beach area properly.

Sandy Beach Project Gets Boost Saturday

Project Sandy Beach moved closer to opening day Saturday as workmen and truck drivers provided their efforts to prepare the site.

Truck drivers hauled sand and project officials estimated that about 300 more tons of sand would be required.

Concrete finishers Clarence Scott and Percy Ballard completed the floor in the bath house after Henry Nelch & Son provided the ready mix.

Kenny Vas donated the sand from a quarry west of Winchester. Pete Korsmeyer and Bobby Freitag loaded the sand at the quarry.

The project has been in operation for the past seven weeks. Still needed is installation of a cable from point to point to keep boats out of the swimming area (about 600 feet), and a pair of garage doors for the beach house.

Fence will be needed from the beach to beach house and gravel for the parking area. Alderman Homer Baptist said the road from the boat dock will be sealed and chipped for 1/2 mile before opening day.

The floor of the bath house is paved and the floating platform for lifeguards has not been constructed as yet.

Truckers who donated trucks were: Kenneth Megginson, Orleans Co-op Grain Co., Mike Kaiser, Sooy Grain Co., Bob Sooy, Joe and William Leib, James Ketselman, Howard Becker, James Zachary, Fred W. and Gerald Massey, John A. Kilam, Bill Hadden, Byron W. Stewart, Charles Finch, Butch Unken, Ed Becker, Samuel Murphy, Norman Kleinschmidt, Dick Stake.

Others who provided services were: Ron Carr, Theresa Savoie, Robert Turner, Don Wolfley, Carl Bourn, Bryce Wall, Harry Simmons, Paul Barnes, Homer Baptist and Warren Massey. A plumber missed from a previous report was Joey Stephenson.

Many more hours of work and quite a lot of material will be needed before Project Sandy Beach will be ready to open for swimming. Some of the smaller jobs will have to be accomplished during the evening hours through the week.

A definite date has not been set for opening.

The Trouble With Guns

The trouble with bullets — or shotgun pellets or any other instrument of violence — is that they may be able to kill people but they cannot kill ideas.

Surely men have spilled enough of each other's blood over the centuries to put this truth beyond question. Yet men continue to kill, or attempt to kill, out of hate and rage and frustration and the belief that if they end the physical existence of those they take to be their enemies they will also end the ideas that motivate them.

The idea being tested in America today is no newer than the idea that gave it birth — that all men are equal under the law, that all possess an inalienable right to their lives, their liberties and their individual pursuit of happiness wherever they may choose to live or walk abroad in this land.

This is the idea that motivated James Meredith. What went on in the mind of the man accused of wounding him from ambush on a road in Mississippi, we do not know. He is reported to have said he does not know himself why he did it.

We can surmise, however, that a smoldering resentment at what he considered to be a threat to his own rights and a feeling of importance at being unable to do anything about this supposed threat erupted into the force that made him pull the trigger.

In so doing, he not only violated the fundamental law which makes civilized society possible. He disavowed allegiance to the fundamental belief on which this nation is based — the belief that the citizens of a democracy are capable of settling their differences through lawful procedures, that out of the give and take of rational discourse and argument and compromise the welfare of all will best be served.

There is tragedy enough in the fact there are still fear-ridden men who do not accept this belief, tragedy enough in the fact that there have been other brave men before Meredith who were not so lucky as he.

Even more tragic would be for the Negro community to allow itself to be brought down to the level of the roadside snipers and church bombers to meet killing with killing and destruction with destruction, as far too many hotheads are advocating.

It would be tragic both for them and for the nation as a whole. It would mean that the haters of democracy are right after all. It would mean that James Meredith lived, but the idea that led him to walk along a road in Mississippi perished after all.

Forgotten Men

We don't hear much about the "middle class" any more.

There was a time when critics of society took pleasure in attacking the middle class as the repository of puritanical virtues, the fountainhead of anti-intellectualism, the fortress of parochialism and prejudice.

Protagonists in novels of the '20s and '30s were invariably refugees from the Dullsville of their middle-class backgrounds who sought "meaning" in the Bohemian atmosphere of Paris or Greenwich Village.

The French had a word—bourgeois—for all that the middle class represented. Americans coined a new one—Babbittism—from the name of the nonhero of Sinclair Lewis' "Main Street."

But nobody knocks the middle class much any more. Perhaps it is because recent history has proved that it is the absence of a staunch, flourishing middle class in so many newly established nations around the world that accounts for their unrest and instability.

Another reason may be that with middle-class affluence so widespread in this country today, the label has simply become rather meaningless.

For anyone who is curious about where he stands in the social structure, however, there are still some fairly reliable criteria.

For instance, if taxes — income, property, sales, excise, ad infinitum — give you a constant pain, that's part of the middle-class syndrome. (The poor at least escape some of them and the rich either don't feel them or have ways of getting around them.)

If your son or daughter is not eligible to earn college money in part-time work because your income exceeds the maximums set by the government's youth opportunity program, sorry, you're middle class.

If you don't qualify for rent subsidies, welfare assistance, free medical care — if, briefly, you have to pay all your own bills — you can be pretty sure you're middle class.

If you dabble in stocks but own so few of them that a dip in the market really doesn't shake you, then you're definitely stuck in the middle class.

You are, to put it bluntly, the forgotten man today, just because there are so many of you. Forgotten, that is, until April 15 every year.

For Uncle Sam knows, even if he doesn't admit it, that it is the thousands of dollars from the millions of the middle class, not the millions of dollars from the thousands of the rich, that keep this country operating and paying the tab for the Great Society.

If the shoe fits, accept it gladly. You'll never get another one for free.

Dear Ann:

Acne Least of Risks Involved

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I can't get mail at home because my mother has X-ray eyes that can read right through envelopes, if you know what I mean. Please answer immediately as I'm clutched.

I am 16 years old and my boyfriend Hank is 17. What I need to know right away is if a girl can catch acne from a boy. We are on the verge of doing some rather heavy necking and I want to know what the risks are. Rush your advice as I have a date with Hank for Saturday night. —IN SEARCH OF INFORMATION

Dear Ann Landers: No, you cannot catch acne from Hank but "other" things can happen which would make acne seem like small potatoes. My advice to you is to cool it, Sister.

Dear Ann Landers: Too much pride can be deadly — as you have said so often in your column. I wish I had been wise enough to take your word for it because now I am choking on my pride.

A few years ago I was in love with a wonderful man. I know he loved me, too. He showed it in everything he said and did. He was kind and thoughtful and decent and greatly respected by everyone who knew him.

up at. My girlfriend dream was to be carried into the bedroom on my wedding night. Well, I married a husky, handsome brute and now I realize that the little guy is a lot bigger man than my husband will ever be. Please print my letter for the benefit of others who haven't yet made the decision. —NEW HAVEN FOOL

Dear New Haven: Here's your letter and thank you for having written it. When the word comes from the person who has been there it packs a double wallop. Are you listening, students?

Dear Ann Landers: Several years ago you said something in your column that I liked so much I cut it out and carried it in my wallet until it became yellowed with age and I could no longer read it. It went something like this: "Children need examples more than they need critics."

Our children were small then and both my husband and I tried to follow that advice. I am happy to say it has paid off. Our two sons behave so much like their dad that it is comical. Of course it is flattering to dad when he sees his children trying to imitate him. And I feel the same when my little girl, now seven, pretends she is me when she feeds her dolly.

I wish you would re-emphasize the importance of parents setting a good example for their children. We all need to be reminded of these home truths from time to time. —LEARNED FROM YOU

Dear Learned: Since the clipping has been discarded I'd like to supply you with another one for your wallet. It expresses the same idea and the man who said it was Francis Quarles, "way back in 1635."

"If thou desire to see thy child virtuous, let him not see his father's vices. Examples direct more than precepts; such as thy behavior is before thy children's faces, will their behavior be behind your back."

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Washington Viet Cong Are Discouraged As Victory Eludes Them

By RAY CROMLEY
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — "Despite our increased air power and military victories in Viet Nam, the Viet Cong control about the same amount of territory they held a year ago in our province," said the man just in from a district on the Cambodian border.

"In our province, the government holds about 100 hamlets, the Viet Cong about 80 and around 60 or so are disputed and belong to whoever has a patrol out that day."

"Yet it's certain Viet Cong morale is going down. There are around 80 VC deserters a month now in our province, compared with around 20 a month a year back."

"These men, when you talk to them, sound discouraged. 'Yet the Viet Cong are not short of weapons or ammunition. They bring it in across the Cambodian border by trail on water or in by boat along the seacoast. I know the Navy says these routes are closed. They stop large numbers of fishing boats. A lot of fishermen must get stopped two or three times a day each."

"But most inspections are perfunctory. The inspectors don't know what's really down in the bottom of the boats."

"The VC seem to have enough food. They're even sending rice out to Cambodia. Chinese and North Vietnamese products are smuggled in readily across the borders for sale on the black markets."

"Sometimes the teams don't move out to the contested hamlets. They stay at the district town and go out by day to the hamlets they're supposed to be winning over. But that isn't enough."

"I hope that with the new training these teams are now getting, things will go better. It's too early to tell."

"But if this doesn't work, then something else will. Now is the time to strike in our province — when the VC are discouraged."

"The Viet Cong defecting where I am average out in their mid-twenties. More teen-agers are coming in — a lot of 15-year-olds. Most of our VC defectors have been in for less than two or three years."

"I think the time is ripe to move in hard politically on the Viet Cong territory in our province. But the government teams sent out thus far to reconquer the VC and contested hamlets to the government side so far have mostly failed."

"They turn in optimistic reports. Then they move on to another hamlet and the one they just left drops back into VC hands. Their reports are just so much paper."

"The guerrilla troops move in and out of Cambodia freely. 'But things aren't going well inside VC territory — in the hamlets they control. They have upped the rice tax on the farmers to something over 50 per cent and that isn't setting well."

"The men in the guerrilla units are finding it more difficult to get back to the hamlets in government hands at night to see their families."

"The guerrillas who defect say the constant bombing keeps them on the move and they do not have enough time to rest."

"They were led to expect victory and it hasn't come. They're getting war-weary."

"In talking to them, you get the feeling they believe they've been let down by their leadership."

FINDING THE WAY

In Gratitude to God

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. It's amazing, shocking — certainly not amusing to see what we try to do with an ancient word of Scripture, especially when we confront some of the same situations in our own day. Here, for instance, is an astute observation of James Reston, the respected news columnist:

"In every city and community there seems to be a small group of leaders who believe that the job can be done and are helping. But most people still seem to be sticking to the old Biblical idea that 'Ye have the poor always with you.'"

Obviously, there are all too many who quote that as though it were Jesus' statement in support of the "do-nothings" who regard anyone working at alleviating poverty as a "do-gooder." "You'll always have the poor, so why try anything?" they say.

As though you would state: "You always have sick people, so why try any healing?"

Or, "You'll always have some ignorant people in the world, so why try to educate?"

The quotation was lifted from the story of Jesus and the woman with the alabaster box of ointment. She wanted to express her gratitude and so brought this expensive gift, broke the box, and used the perfume ointment in the manner of the Orient in anointing Jesus.

It was at that point that one of the disciples said, "This ought to have been sold and given to the poor." To which Jesus replied, "Why do you trouble the woman for she has done a beautiful thing to me? For you always have the poor with you but you will not always have me. In pouring this ointment on my body, she has done it to prepare me for burial. Truly, I say to you wherever the Gospel is preached, in the whole world, what this woman has done will be told in memory of her."

That's the story and it is shocking to find moderns, as Reston says, picking out that one verse, pulling it out of context, and using it as a cover-all to their own apathies.

If it is a Biblical recognition that we have the poor with us always, it is emphatically a Biblical idea that life ought to be shared generously out of sheer gratitude to God. Thankfulness ought to be poured out with a kind of lavishness that forgets the cost, ignores whether anyone is approving or applauding and gives itself with a kind of hilarious joy. That's what that woman did.

It needs to be done in feeding the poor, meeting the conditions of poverty, and keeping one's self in contact with all of the causes and results of poverty. And the fragrance filled the house! That same adventure in grateful living can renew that experience in our time.

Mature Parent

Brother's Keeper?

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: Shouldn't older children be protective toward younger ones? Our boys, 5 and 8, do not get along. But the older one has never hurt his brother until this week. Then he knocked him down. I punished him as I do not believe that older children should be allowed to mistreat younger ones. Later he told his father that his brother had thrown a stone at his scotter and showed a dent he said the stone had made. His father always takes his side.

ANSWER: Are you asking me if the youngness of a younger child entitles him to throw stones at his brother's property? Because I don't think so. And the violence with which your older boy responded to his brother's aggression suggests that he's lost all patience with your permissiveness toward youngness.

While the juniority of a younger child may be very appealing to us, it has no more appeal for the brother whose rights he invades than did the age of Billy the Kid for the townsfolk whose property he assaulted and vandalized. Nor do we ask a vandal how old he is when we come to remember.

home to find him breaking through our basement window. We don't care how old he is. What we care about is his contemptuous disregard for the property of other people.

I don't wonder your sons don't get along. If you won't insist your younger child leave his brother's possessions alone, then his brother will have to teach him to do it or choose to submit to the lawlessness of Billy the Kid.

What you mean by "protectiveness" toward younger children sounds to me like overindulgence of them.

If you want your older boy to develop protective feeling toward his younger brother, then you will first have to find some for his youngness. He's a child. As a child, he can only grow protective feeling toward his brother as he experiences your respect for his rights. To know that he can depend on his parents to enforce his ownership of his possessions is a deeply gratifying knowledge to a child, whatever age he is. It is a knowledge so gratifying, so comforting that out of it comes that protective appreciation of his brother's rights. Cain was an older child, you know. It's a how old he is when we come to remember.

Don't Store Meat Too Long

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I always worry a little in summer about how long fresh meats can be kept in the refrigerator before use. Can you give me some advice, please?

A — Experts on refrigerator storage of meats give the following advice: In general, large cuts of meat may be kept in the refrigerator longer than smaller cuts. A major factor is the proportion of cut surface to the total piece of meat. Ground meats such as hamburger should be used within two days of purchase at most. Liver, heart, kidney and sweet-breads should be cooked in about two days or less. A standing roast of beef could be successfully stored for five to eight days. Chops would fall in the three-to-four-day storage times.

Q—Isn't it true we are eating less pork today than we used to?

A—Yes. The average American this year will eat only about 57 pounds of pork as against 99 pounds of beef, a switch from the older meat consumption pattern, according to market experts.

The Market Presents A-1 Time To Switch Farm Policy—Shuman

The present situation in American agriculture provides an opportunity to get away from the expensive and unsuccessful farm policies of the past, the president of the nation's largest general farm organization said Wednesday.

In a statement prepared for presentation at a session of the President's National Advisory Commission on Food and Fiber, Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said reduced government stocks of farm commodities and the growing world need for U.S. food "provide a wonderful opportunity for action to strengthen the market system at home and abroad."

"A phase-out of acreage controls and direct payments would remove the basis for the present policy of using CCC stocks to hold down the market prices of feed grains and wheat," Shuman said.

"The idea that the termination of existing efforts to restrict feed grain and wheat production would result in a vast expansion in the production of these crops is based on the mistaken assumption that these efforts are effective," the Farm Bureau president said. And he added:

"Farmers can and will adjust production to market requirements in response to market prices."

Illinois Farm OUTLOOK

WHEAT SITUATION IS CHANGING

Most of our once-large wheat surplus has been used, and exported. Supplies on hand and production expected this year are sufficient to meet all needs during the next 12 months, but there won't be much good wheat left at this time next year.

Carryover Cut Two-Thirds. The carryover of old wheat at the end of this marketing year, June 30, will be somewhere around 550 million bushels. This amount is two-thirds less than the record carryover in 1961 but is equal to our own needs for wheat for food for about 13 months or exports for 8 months. It is about one-third of the total amount used and exported during the past 12 months.

Rates of Use. The amount of wheat used for food is close to 525 million bushels each year. The big changes in use of wheat are in exports. Exports increased from 346 million bushels ten years ago to around 800 million bushels in each of the past three years.

Only about one-fourth of our wheat exports are sold for dollars. The remainder are shipped under surplus disposal—foreign aid (Food-for-Peace) programs.

Wheat used for seed usually runs about 60 million bushels a year, but may be raised to 75 million bushels for the next crop.

The amount of wheat used for feed varies from year to year, depending on the price of wheat in comparison with other feed grains. When price supports were around $2.00, about 40 million bushels were used for feed in most years. After price supports were reduced, the amount of wheat used for feed about doubled.

Crop Prospects Are Fair. The 1966 crop has been estimated at 1,235 million bushels, 6 percent less than last year but equal to the 1960-64 five-year average. The expected new crop plus the carryover would make a total supply of about 1,785 million bushels.

Exports are expected to equal or exceed the 850 million bushels shipped out this past year, but the amount of wheat fed to livestock may be reduced. Total use and exports may be 1,500 to 1,550 million bushels.

The carryover a year hence will be only 200 to 300 million bushels. At least 150 million bushels are needed to keep the "pipelines" full so that mills and export facilities can operate. Thus our real reserve stocks of wheat will be very small a year hence, and our ability to export wheat in 1967-68 will depend largely upon the outcome of the wheat crop to be planted this fall and next spring.

Prices. The price support level for the 1966 crop is $1.25 a bushel, the same as for the 1965 crop. Market prices, however, seem likely to hold well above the loan level.

While prices will receive little or no support from the loan program, they will be supported very strongly by government purchases of wheat for export under the Food-for-Peace program.

Farmers Aid Sandy Beach

The farmers of Morgan county — you know their kids would like to swim and enjoy the fullness of Lake Jacksonville — are much interested in Sandy Beach, Jacksonville Lake.

They know that Sandy Beach, now a mud rim, needs sand, so they're hauling in sand. On Saturday, June 18, 25 of them brought in 400 tons of sand.

"The group was sponsored and organized by the Morgan County Farm Bureau after the Farm Bureau Board of Directors suggested and approved cooperating in the Sandy Beach project," says John Chambers, organization director of the Morgan County Farm Bureau.

The above picture from left to right shows Harold Hembrough, Ronnie York and Clyde York after delivering the first three loads to the site.

Others furnishing trucks and participating in the all day project included: Milt Birdsell, Byron Stewart, Roy E. Smith, Smith, Dick Staake, Orleans Elevator, Sam Murphy, Donald Richardson, Woodson Elevator, Charles Finch and Bergschneider Brothers.

Wilbur Patterson, with his FS Truck, was on hand to refill the gas tanks after the job was completed. The sand was loaded and donated by Kenneth Vasconcellos.

Higher Protein Corn Shows Much Promise For Hungry World

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—High-lysine corn "is the first successful demonstration that the protein composition of a seed can be drastically changed by a single gene," Robert C. Liebenow said here Tuesday.

In his remarks at the opening of a High Lysine Corn Conference, Liebenow said, "Built-in enrichment" — or what has been called "internal enrichment" — is very possibly the key to the next great development in agriculture.

Liebenow, president of Corn Industries Research Foundation, Inc., Washington, D.C., termed high-lysine corn "a tremendous scientific breakthrough."

Such a breakthrough, Liebenow added, "had to come if we ever hoped to push agriculture forward to that next higher plateau on the scale of human technological advancement."

The conference, headed by more than 300 government, university and industry scientists, hybrid seed corn growers, representatives of a dozen foreign governments and international agencies, and agribusiness and agricultural trade association leaders from around the nation, is being sponsored by the Purdue School of Agriculture with the support of Corn Industries Research Foundation, Inc., a national trade association of corn refiners.

Less Arable Land
"Today," said Liebenow, "American agriculture and under-nourished millions around the world look to us to stimulate the potentially great next revolution in corn."

Pointing out that the world's supply of grain cropland will drop from a half acre per person to about one-quarter acre per person by the year 2000, Liebenow said American agriculture must show the way to not only adequate food in the years ahead, but to nutritious food as well. Protein shortages in the diets of children are a particular problem which must be overcome, he said.

Liebenow said that high-lysine corn raised on Purdue experimental seed plots had been sent to scientists in 22 nations—Brazil, France, Canada, Mexico, Spain, The Philippines, Venezuela, Yugoslavia, Peru, Australia, Sweden, Thailand, Pakistan, Nepal, Israel, South Africa, Egypt, Taiwan, Guatemala, Kenya, Gabon and Colombia. He pointed out that the genetic variability of Latin American corn varieties makes it possible to combine the mutant opaque-2 gene which produces high-lysine corn with other desirable characteristics to produce corn varieties suited to other parts of the world.

"Limited amounts of lysine and tryptophan—two essential amino acids—have ranked corn relatively low on the protein efficiency scale. Lysine deficiencies have similarly limited the protein value of rolled oats, white rice, whole wheat, cottonseed and white flour. Animal proteins contain relatively higher levels of lysine."

The less developed nations cannot, however, establish overnight red meat industries comparable to those found in the developed world and, lately, Japan," Liebenow observed. "The higher content of lysine in soybeans has bridged the gap between animal and vegetable protein, Liebenow said, and artificial introduction of lysine is perhaps another way grain can be made more nutritious."

Higher Food Value
"But, in the case of corn," he added, "science has revealed a superior way to boost corn's lysine content—by genetics."

If high-lysine corn can be produced which contains consistently higher quantities of lysine and other essential amino acids, and if the yields are commercially feasible, U. S. swine and poultry feeding could change "substantially," Liebenow said.

"Already, limited tests reveal that the feeding of opaque-2 corn to swine reduces drastically the amount of soybean meal required to balance rations," Liebenow added.

Liebenow said human feeding studies in Guatemala revealed that high-lysine corn "was found to contain protein equivalent to milk protein."

BRIMFUL and running over

By Jim Brim

There are still many farmers who use pasture methods to raise hogs. This is true in spite of all we hear and see about further refinement in confinement handling of hogs at all stages of their growth.

These are the reasons cited by some who use pasture for hogs.

- All told, there's less labor.
- Manure is too valuable to waste.
- Hauling feed is easier than hauling manure.
- Piped water makes it easy and isn't too expensive.
- Portable housing and equipment are relatively inexpensive, easy to build.
- Gains are good from clover pasture and cornfield gleanings.
- Good way to utilize rough land, but also used on good land.
- Less cost, more profit.

If you are considering changes in your hog production facilities consider all angles. Confinement buildings and equipment have a high initial cost and do not lend themselves to other uses.

Consider that there are advantages and disadvantages to both ways. Make a list and study them before you make up your mind.

Now you should...

- ...Watch your wheat.
- ...Watch your weight
- ...Re-stock your freezer.
- ...Check your tires ... all of them—for safety's sake.
- ...Weed your garden.
- ...Be careful of overexposure to the sun

Before you store wheat clean your bin thoroughly. Spray to kill insects and put in clean wheat. Also take steps to keep mice and rats out—and poison those you have.

Make plans to celebrate the Fourth of July. Be especially careful when driving. Watch the children. FLY THE FLAG.

Ladies, cooking and eating outside won't heat up the kitchen and is a pleasant change for all. Using paper plates cuts dishwashing, too.

There are so many labor saving devices on the market today that a man has to work all his life to pay for them.

GIANT OF THE SKIES

By WALTER B. HENDRICKSON JR.

Lockheed is developing a true giant of the skies, the C-5A, for the Air Force.

This plane is twice the size of any aircraft in service and it can carry nearly three times as much. The C-5A weighs 700,000 pounds about 250,000 pounds of which is payload. It is 242 feet long and has a wing span of 223 feet. Its tail towers to a height of 63 feet.

If the C-5A were parked in the middle of a football field it would reach from one 15 yard line to the other while its wings overhang the benches by a considerable area. In spite of its size this behemoth could turn around in half the width of the football field without touching the markers on the side lines.

The Air Force wants the C-5A to carry troops to any trouble spot in the world. The plane can deliver a whole platoon to an unimproved runway near a battle site anywhere within 2,500 miles of the United States. After delivering its cargo on a field as little as 3,000 feet in length it can return to the United States with the fuel it has on board.

The C-5A has two levels: an upper one for the crew and 75 troops, and a lower one for their vehicles. There is still room enough for living accommodations for the crew for ten days. With seats on the lower level the C-5A could carry 220 troops. Arranged as an airliner it could carry 900 passengers. First class would probably be on the upper level and tourist on the lower.

28 Wheels The landing gear of the C-5A has 28 wheels none of which follow in the track of the one ahead. This keeps them from packing down the soil. The tires can be inflated or deflated in flight to suit the characteristics of the landing field.

When the C-5A has landed it can crouch down on its landing gear to make it easy to unload its cargo. This cargo can be loaded and unloaded either through huge doors in the tail of the plane or through the nose. The nose of the C-5A swings up like the visor of a knight's helmet. This keeps it out of the way during loading and unloading and makes a firmer connection during flight.

Since vehicles loaded on the C-5A do not have to be backed on or off the troops can go in to action faster.

SUSPECTS

Part Two

A slight sign of misgiving swept over Mother's blond features. "I don't believe it," she bristled. "Those kids won't steal. A bit rattle-brained... maybe, same as most youngsters... but they are not criminals!"

"But Mrs. Carter's neighbors—Mrs. Finch and Mrs. Hackney—saw the kids on the old lady's porch soon after dark last night," the tall policeman countered. "I still don't believe it."

Mother shot back. "Something funny about the whole thing anyhow. I'll have a talk with the boys about it."

Officer Moran turned to the door. "Then you'll have to come down to the village jail," he said grinning. "You'll find the kids there!"

That afternoon Mother Dugan brushed through the swinging doors of the village hall and went tripping down the corridor to the desk of magistrate Duncan.

"I'm here to get those kids out of your old jail," she told the jurist.

The magistrate fumbled some papers on his desk. "It can be arranged, perhaps," he said nodding. "But there is a matter of cash ball involved."

Mother Dugan tossed her check book on the desk. "Then get busy," she snapped, "I'm taking the kids home."

Surprise A couple of days later Mother Dugan and officer Moran walked into magistrate Duncan's office. "About those kids, Tyler and Davis, you won't need a trial..." Moran informed the surprised jurist.

The magistrate looked puzzled. "No trial? I'm afraid I don't understand."

"We did some checking," the officer continued, nodding toward Mother. "and found that Mrs. Carter's money box was never stolen in the first place!"

"Are you saying that she faked the story for the sake of publicity, to get her name in the news?" the judge said bristling.

"No, nothing like that," Moran replied, "but the old lady is a bit absent minded at times... and after she paid the kids for their work she forgot where she put the money box. When she couldn't find it she reported it stolen. Mother Dugan went down there and found the thing under the bed right where the old lady had put it."

Sharp Question "But those kids were seen on Mrs. Carter's porch at an hour they had no business there... how do you account for that?"

"That's easy," Mother said as she chuckled. "Tom was having trouble with his grades and was trying to hide the fact from his parents. But his report card was in the pocket of the jacket he had left on Mrs. Carter's back porch. Afraid the old lady would find it and start gabbing he and Eddie sneaked down there after dark to get it."

Magistrate Duncan pulled Mother Dugan's check from the file and handed it to her. "Case closed," he said and grinned.

Let's Go Birding

Woodchuck Is Safe

By Emma Mae Leonhard

The Woodcock on the nest, about which we wrote earlier, caused much interest. And it continued to behave perfectly for viewers, always remaining motionless for easy and prolonged study. It wasn't, however, any easier to find; it was always a dead leaf pattern merging with the brown leaves and sticks among which it sat, frozen in its position.

Photographers also had an accommodating sitter. They could get as close to their model as they wished; they had no worries about its movements or expressions. They could move the stick or leaf from its long bill. The Woodcock remained sphinx-like on its nest.

The main concern of the camera-snapper was the result. Would the image of the Woodcock separate itself enough from the surrounding leaves to disclose itself in the picture? The photographer succeeded, but the viewers of the results had fun in playing the game of who could find the bird first. And imaginations created a Woodcock where it wasn't. After careful scrutiny and comparison of opinions, the viewers agreed that there was a Woodcock in the picture. Camouflage works both in nature and in pictures.

Some of us visited the nest at intervals to check whether it was still safe. We found it on the rainy Saturday morning of May 7, our census day. On Monday morning, when we returned to show it to a Florida bird watcher, we saw only a depression in the leaves where the bird had been. At first we imagined all kinds of tragedies that could have visited it.

When we examined the depression more carefully, we uncovered the broken shells of three eggs. Evidently the eggs had hatched, and the mother bird had already safely coaxed the tiny babies, the replicas of herself, out into the leaf-covered floor along the stream, securely hidden from anyone of us curious bird-watchers.

We had to be satisfied with a photograph of only the nest with the buffy white shells ornamenting it, but we were relieved that one Woodcock's home had materialized.

PLAN A LONG STITCH WALTON, N.S. (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Garth Sanford are hooking their own stair-carpet. They are about half-way through and expect it'll take two years in all to finish the 14-yard, maple leaf pattern carpet.

Prayer Poem

Hidden Secrets

By Mary Pence Claywell

Little, white cloud-ships, up in the sky... Where were you last night, when the winds rode high, And loud thunder rumbled across hill and plain... And the black clouds poured out, an ocean of rain? Where were you hiding, with danger so near... And sweeping tornadoes, filled all hearts with fear, And streets were like rivers, where whirlpools did spin, And there were no banks, where the rivers... had been? Did you have a hide-out, somewhere, way up high... Glimpsed only by God, with His Allseeing Eye... And were you, all scattered, like white lamb at play, Or like lily paddles, in some peaceful bay? This morning, you're peaceful, up there in the blue, With sunshine, and Glory, all twined around you; With tree limbs uplifted, like arms, green and fair, Their lovely leaves quite... like hands clasped in prayer; Little white cloud-boats... where do you go... THAT IS GOD'S SECRET... and we can not know... Yet, dreamers will dream... and "visions" abound... Perhaps little "Angels"... just row you around!

New Brooder Housing Plan Triples Flow, Cuts Disease Loss

A new housing and management system for producing broilers that can triple the number of chicks raised annually by a broiler producer was described by A. D. Longhouse of Morgantown, W.Va., at the 1966 annual meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers on the campus of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

Longhouse, who is chairman of the department of agricultural engineering at West Virginia University, said that agricultural engineers, poultrymen, and veterinarians at the university's agricultural experiment station have developed a program in which 13 batches of chicks may be moved through the poultry house annually, as compared with the presently used "all in—all out" system which "produces five batches a year at best, usually fewer."

In Three Sections The new method requires a house with three pens, each with its own ventilation system, brooding equipment, lights, water and feed. Partitions between the pens are airtight. Chicks are kept in the starting pen from the time they are one day old until they are three weeks of age. They are then transferred to the intermediate pen through an opening which is sealed airtight again after the transfer is completed. They are held in the intermediate pen for three weeks, then transferred in the same manner to the finishing pen where they are kept another three weeks and then sold.

As soon as a pen is emptied of a brood, it is cleaned and washed thoroughly and is not used for one week. A new brood is placed in the starting pen every 28 days and a batch is sold out of the finishing pen every 28 days. A maximum of 13 batches may be moved through the house annually.

No Medication

No medication or vaccination is used to control disease, but more than usual precautions are taken to prevent introduction of diseases. Each pen has its own feed supply, with feed brought to the building and emptied into special hoppers in the outside wall. The caretaker cares for the younger birds first, and if he re-enters a pen with younger birds after caring for the older ones, he must change his outer garments and footwear before entering. Visitors are not permitted inside the building.

The new system was put into operation on July 23, 1963, and as of May 31, 1965, 23 broods had been sold. Longhouse reported. Mortality losses were low, and the 23 broods reared in the house averaged 3.51 pounds with a feed conversion ratio of 2:30 at nine weeks of age. The average cost per bird for the brooding was 0.72 cents.

"Two control diseases, the broiler producer has been forced to use the 'all in—all out system,'" Longhouse observed. "However, introduction of antibiotics and new techniques in management aid in control of diseases; engineering has brought about changes in building construction, including new materials, mechanical ventilation, and lighting. This knowledge should be coordinated and used to bring about greater efficiency in broiler production."

Questions, Answers On Value Of Urea In Beef Production

Few cattle feed ingredients in history have received as much attention as has been given to urea during the past few years.

University of Illinois extension beef specialists Harry Russell and Terry Greathouse note that a large share of the questions they receive from cattle feeders deal with urea and its use. Here are their answers to some of the most common questions asked about urea:

What is urea, and how expensive is it?

Urea is a concentrated source of nitrogen—actually a high-grade nitrogen fertilizer. Urea generally costs about $100 per ton, depending upon location and volume.

What is the protein equivalent of urea?

The protein equivalent of 100 lb. of urea is 262% as compared with 100 lb. of soybean meal at 44%. Each 100 lb. of urea contains 42 lb. of nitrogen. Protein is about 16% nitrogen, so each 64 lb. of protein contains 1 lb. of nitrogen (100 / .16 = 6.25). Thus the protein equivalent of 100 lb. of urea equals 42 x 6.25 equals 262. Recently urea has been manufactured containing 45% nitrogen (45 x 6.25 equals 281).

Is 1 lb. of urea equal to 6 or 7 lb. of soybean meal?

No. Urea furnishes only nitrogen and contains no energy, vitamins or minerals. Natural proteins furnish other nutrients, especially energy, that are of value to cattle. To make 1 lb. of urea equal 6 or 7 lb. of soybean meal, you must mix it with some quick source of energy, such as molasses or corn. Therefore, 1 lb. of urea plus 6 lb. of corn equals 7 lb. of soybean meal.

lucent and smoother in appearance." These results are nothing short of amazing. And it took a new cosmetic compound to do it.

Genava was developed by the trustworthy Nina laboratory. Designed to be used twice daily—under make-up and overnight—it is absorbed instantly by the skin. Start using Genava today. In just two weeks your wrinkles will vanish or diminish greatly. Skin becomes more translucent, smoother. You will look gloriously younger! 1.65 oz. $3.50; 4 oz. $5.00. nina's genava

Jones' Home Run Allows Mets To Edge Cubs, 4-2

CHICAGO (AP) — Cleon Jones, who walloped a game-winning home run off Ken Holtzman May 6, slammed another off the Chicago Cubs' southpaw in the seventh inning Friday that carried the New York Mets to a 4-2 victory.

The homer, Jones' third of the season, broke a 2-2 tie and enabled veteran right-hander Bob Friend to record his first triumph for the Mets. He was obtained from the New York Yankees earlier this month.

Jones also drove in the Mets' fourth run with a ninth-inning single.

Friend yielded only five hits before he was relieved with one out and one man on in the seventh. Both runs off him were unearned. Jack Hamilton finished.

Athletics Win 7-5 Despite Homers By Colavito

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mike Herschberger stroked three key hits as Kansas City defeated Cleveland 7-5 Friday night despite two home runs by Rocky Colavito.

Colavito, who drove in all five Indian runs, now has hit six homers in his last four games and brought his season total to 13.

However, his homers and a run-producing single in the ninth weren't enough to overcome the Athletics' 15-hit attack.

Herschberger doubled in a run in a four-run sixth inning uprising, singled in the seventh as the A's scored again and triggered a final rally in the ninth with another single.

Redlegs Sweep Doubleheader From Gillespie

Timely hitting by Bill Oldenettel and strong pitching from Jack McNeely and Bob Vinyard carried the Jacksonville State Hospital Redlegs to a doubleheader sweep over Gillespie, 4-0 and 6-4, Friday night.

McNeely tossed a four-hitter and Vinyard a five-hitter as the Redlegs moved their season's record to 11-15.

Oldenettel got Jacksonville's only two hits in the opener, a triple and a homer, with the roundtripper breaking a scoreless deadlock in the fourth. The Redlegs added two more in the fifth when Irvin Todd reached on an error, Ron Tomhave walked and a wild throw by the Gillespie catcher went all the way to the center field fence. The final run crossed in the sixth when Oldenettel tripled and Bob Speaks hit a deep sacrifice fly.

Singles by Fred Curtis and Speaks added a run in the first frame of the nightcap. Another tally crossed in the second when Gale Waltrip walked, Vinyard, who was three-for-three at the plate, singled and Wayne Smith singled.

After a leaky Redleg defense gave Gillespie two in the fourth, Jacksonville came back with four in the bottom of the sixth to forge ahead for good. A bloop single by Waltrip, a double by Vinyard and Curtis' three-run homer that skipped by the left fielder, and Oldenettel's homer ended the scoring.

Duckworth Sent To Kansas City

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Senators, unable to bring out pitcher Jim Duckworth's potential in three years, sent him to Kansas City on waivers Friday to complete a deal that brought first baseman Ken Harrelson here.

Duckworth had a 7-23 record with the Senators. Bothered with a rib injury this season, he pitched only 14 1-3 innings but had three defeats.

FACE-SAVING, to Boston catcher Bob Tillman, means catching a foul pop just as it is about to hit a spectator who makes himself a pretzel trying to get out of the way. Or perhaps it was Tillman's stern look that made the spectator duck.

WHAT CAN IT BE that American League Umpire Emmett Ashford is talking about that his expression seems so pained? Whatever it is, Washington Senators manager Gil Hodges probably got the point.

Drafke Captures Seventh State Women's Title

PEKIN, Ill. (AP)—Miss Louis Drafke of La Grange won her seventh state women's amateur golf championship today with a 1 and 7 victory over Mrs. Nina McMeekan of Bloomington.

Miss Drafke had taken a 5-up lead into the afternoon round. She extended her lead to six holes with a birdie on the first hole. She dropped back to 5-up when Mrs. McMeekan won the second hole at par. Miss Drafke did not lose a hole thereafter and boasted a 7-up lead at the turn.

The match ended on the 11th green where Miss Drafke posted a par 5.

In the morning round Miss Drafke fired a 36-42-78, while Mrs. McMeekan shot 41-43-84 over the par 37-38-75 Pekin Country Club.

Miss Drafke last won the Illinois women's title in 1964. Friday morning, Miss Drafke used only 13 putts as she took five holes and lost only one on the outgoing nine.

The 28-year-old Miss Drafke won state titles also in 1963, 1955, 1959, 1960 and 1962. In 1961 she was runnerup and in 1962 and 1965 was medalist.

The Braves increased their league lead with a 9-6 victory over the Dodgers, while the Orioles romped to an easy 15-3 count over the Tigers.

The Braves trailed 2-0 and 5-4 until a two-run fourth and a three-run fifth settled the issue. Dave Waltrip hurled the last three innings for the winners and whiffed seven of the ten batters he faced.

Five runs in the third and six more in the fourth carried the Orioles to their easy victory. The winners pounded out 15 hits, including nine for extra bases.

Fantastic Speed At Daytona Sets This Track Off

By RICHARD PETTY Driving in a race on Daytona International Speedway is different from driving on any of the other superspeedways.

The fantastic speeds possible there make the difference. Any driver in a car capable of winning at Daytona must go full bore all the time. At Daytona, you seldom if ever correct a mistake. Make a miscue and you're in real trouble and out of the running. You just don't relax from start to finish.

Of course, a good race driver never relaxes in any race on any track if he's in there to win. What makes heads-up, errorless driving an absolute must at Daytona, the fastest race track in the world, is the monotonous all-out speed you've got to maintain to stay in serious contention.

As most race fans know, you don't have to back off the turns at Daytona. They're high-banked and sweeping and you go around them just about as fast as you would streak down a straightaway on the 2 1/2-mile track. As the old-time race driver said: "Just floorboard the gas pedal and keep turning left!"

175-165 M.P.H. Average Last February, I was fortunate enough to set a new Daytona qualifying record, doing my two-lap (5-mile) time trial at an average speed of 175.65 miles per hour. On the backstretch I was doing 190-195 m.p.h. despite a wind problem that bothered all of us qualifying that day.

I won the 495-mile race (shortened by two laps because of rain) at an average speed of 160.627 m.p.h., although 22 caution laps slowed the race and I had to make an unscheduled pit stop for a change of tires. During the early part of the race, Paul Goldsmith and I were drafting each other in traffic at better than 176 m.p.h.

Those speeds, which may be equaled or even exceeded in the Firecracker 400 on July 4, illustrated exactly why Daytona takes more intense concentration every second of every race. You're not allowed a single mistake—if you hope to win.

In fact, although you don't have to wrangle with the turns, Daytona takes as much out of the driver as any other race.

WILTED—It isn't the hot sun that has American tennis player Arthur Ashe sagging. It's his best backhand that missed clearing the net by an inch.

WEE BUT MIGHTY, Washington State University's Gerry Lindgren promises to become one of the great long-distance runners in American track history, setting the pace this year in nearly every distance event he has entered.

LAST YEAR Dave Nicholson was a strikeout leader. But this year, for Grady Hatton's surprising Houston Astros, Nicholson not only has cut down on third strikes but he's among the National League's top hitters as well.

Membership Grows In 'Suicide Club'

NEW YORK (AP) — It doesn't cost anything to join baseball's "suicide club," except perhaps a few dollars deducted from next year's paycheck. But big league pitchers are becoming members in ever-increasing numbers.

Bill Hands of the Chicago Cubs, Sammy Ellis of Cincinnati, Joe Gibbon of San Francisco, Don Drysdale of Los Angeles, Bob Bruce of Houston and Larry Jackson of Philadelphia are the co-chairmen. Other charter members include Jerry Arrigo, Larry Bearnarth, and Dennis Ribant of the New York Mets and Art Mahaffey of St. Louis.

Initiation is easy. All one has to do is lose at least one to either of baseball's best pitchers, Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers or Juan Marichal of the Giants.

Each has a 13-2 record and while both have faced several other leading pitchers, managers have been inclined to throw some of their lesser lights to the wolves.

Hands, a rookie with a 5-5 mark, has lost twice to Marichal. So, have Ellis, a 22-game winner last season but only 3-11 this year, and Drysdale, a 4-9 flop.

Gibbon, 3-4, has been defeated twice by Koufax. Bruce, 1-3, and Jackson, 4-6, have lost once to each star pitcher. Jackson was beaten both times in mid-April while with the Cubs, who later traded him to the Phils.

Dick Ellsworth of the Cubs, who has a 2-10 record; Ribant 2-3; Arrigo 1-1, and Ray Zadecki of the Giants, 3-5, have lost once to Koufax.

Top Ones Lose Too Some among the league's more successful pitchers also have lost to the Dodgers' ace. They include Bob Gibson, 11-6, and Al Jackson, 6-6, of St. Louis, Chris Short, 8-4, of the Phils and Steve Blass, 5-1, of Pittsburgh.

Marichal's other victims also include Mahaffey 1-3, and Bearnarth, 2-3, plus Dave Giusti, Houston, 9-4, and Bob Veale, Pittsburgh, 7-5.

Marichal's setbacks were by the Phils' Short and Houston's Mike Cuellar, who is unbeaten in five decisions while Koufax lost to Connie Dierker of Houston, 3-2, and Joey Jay of Cincinnati. Jay, who was traded to Atlanta last week, has a 6-3 mark.

Koufax and Marichal haven't faced each other since last Aug. 22. The Giants won the game 4-3 with Koufax being tagged with the loss, but Ron Herbel receiving credit for the victory.

Says Clay Will Fight Sept. 10 In Frankfurt

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay will meet Karl Mildenberger Sept. 10 in a world title fight at Frankfurt's 79,000-seat soccer stadium, the German boxer's manager said Friday night.

Wolfgang Mueller said Mildenberger, the European champion, had accepted the date suggested by Clay's managers, but contracts still have to be signed.

Mueller said that Clay might first fight Brian London somewhere in Ireland next month.

Clay has been guaranteed about $400,000 plus a percentage of the receipts for the Frankfurt contest, Mueller said.

Fourth-ranked Mildenberger, he said, will get 15 per cent of the total receipts. Mueller estimated that the fight would attract at least 50,000 spectators.

The West German Television Association disclosed it had turned down a proposal for live transmission of the fight in West Germany, because the price of $375,000 was out of the question.

Mueller said Mildenberger would not begin training for the Clay fight until late next month. This, he said, will allow time for the healing of a facial cut received in his successful defense of his European crown last week against Yugoslavia's Ivan Prebeg.

Red Sox Homers Sink Senators 5-1

BOSTON (AP) — Tony Conigliaro and Joe Foy hit homers as Boston's Jose Santiago outdueled Washington strikeout artist Pete Richter in the Red Sox 5-1 victory Friday night.

Conigliaro, the American League's 1965 home run king struggling to break out of a prolonged slump, connected for his 14th homer in the second and Foy contributed his third in the seventh.

Santiago allowed six hits, including Willie Kirkland's homer in the fifth inning in posting his sixth triumph. He struck out seven and walked none.

Richter struck out seven, hiking his league-leading total to 113, but was tagged for seven hits before being lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth. He suffered his seventh defeat against eight victories.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Johnny Edwards drove in four runs with a pair of singles as the red-hot Cincinnati Reds routed San Francisco 12-1 for their seventh consecutive victory Friday night.

Sammy Ellis, who has lost 11 games, shut out the Giants on five singles until Don Mason led off with a home run in the eighth inning. Ellis went all the way, scattering six hits for his fourth victory.

Edwards hit his first two-run single in the opening inning off starter Bob Bolin, who was lifted for a pinch hitter the next inning.

Deron Johnson and Edwards each drove in two runs in the fifth inning when the Reds scored five times on five hits and two San Francisco errors. Tommy Harper knocked in two more with a seventh-inning triple.
